NEW HAVEN CASE OUTLINED TO JURY BY GOVERNMENT

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The jurors chosen to try William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Leary, Edward D. Robbins and eight other directors or former directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, charged with conspiracy to monopolize interstate commerce under the Sherman law, took their seats in the Federal Court here today to hear the opening address of R. L. Batts, attorney for the Government.

Batts expected to occupy the whole day and probably all of tomorrow in telling the jury what the Government intended to prove. He planned to outline the case in chronological order beginning in 1890, the date of the enactment of the Sherman law, and tracing the various transactions under which formerly independent railroads, trolley lines and steamship companies in New England were brought into the New Haven fold.

Heads Text of Law.
Before Batts began, Assistant District Attorney Stevenson read the text of the Sherman act.

Batts, taking the floor, said:
"It will be necessary for the Government to show that these defendants have with an intent, which we will speak of as a criminal intent, conspired to monopolize the interstate commerce of New England. The Government will show that they did these things with a knowledge that they were violating this act."

The attorney said the jury would be asked to consider the methods by which the alleged unlawful acts were done as well as the acts themselves. It would be necessary, he added, to show conditions of New England traffic in 1890 and its relation to the balance of commerce in the United States.

Batts declared he would make it clear that there was no suggestion intended by the Government that the component parts of the New Haven should be returned to their original status, as the combination of these parts was not necessarily unlawful.

Acquired 7000 Miles of Line.
"The New Haven Railroad," he continued, "which once owned only 258 miles of track, succeeded in acquiring all its lines until it controlled 7500 miles of line, and gained a position where every person, engaged in business in New England, every enterprise, was under its power and control. Lines were similarly acquired, he said, and a complete monopoly of all transportation traffic attained, a monopoly that was unlawful and "designed to place an unlimited power in the hands of these conspirators."

The chief competitor of the New Haven, in the early days, was the New York & New England Railroad. In 1892 Batts charged the New Haven broke up a through route maintained by the New York & New England road by gaining control of one of its connections to New York, the Connecticut.

How Charles S. Mellen, who is expected to be the Government star witness, first came to go with the New Haven was described by the Government attorney in reciting the history of the New Haven's subsequent acquisition of the New York & New England. Mellen was then general manager of the New York & New England, and had threatened freight rate cuts against the New Haven.

There was at the time Mellen joined the New Haven a suit pending against the New England, which the Government attorneys said had been started by a Boston saloon keeper named Goldsmith at the instance of Austin Corbin, a former president of the New England, to restrain a proposed issue of securities by which the New England wanted to raise funds. The New Haven directors, Batts charged, acquired this suit and caused its prosecution "by attorneys whose relationship to the New Haven was concealed."

New England Goes Broke.
The Government would show, Batts said, that J. P. Morgan, William Rockefeller, C. P. Clark and Lucius Tuttle agreed to indemnify Austin Corbin for the consequences of the issue of the suit. The suit resulted, he asserted, in the New York & New England going into the hands of a receiver and the New Haven purchased a controlling interest in the stock.

The heirs of Goldsmith subsequently brought suit for $25,000 against Corbin as damages "in the way of appropriation and injury to name and business," which, the attorney charged, the New Haven settled.

"I do not believe that at the present time business would do a thing of this kind," said Batts. "For times have changed, principally due to the Sherman act. I think, but at that time William Rockefeller did not hesitate to sign the head of indemnification."

Batts then went into the acquisition of the Boston & Maine. He told of the Massachusetts court decision, which returned the New Haven from holding ville St. Vast and have taken about 100 yards of trenches in Lorraine north of Redon.

As a reprisal for German air raids in England, a group of French aeroplanes has thrown 30 shells on the town of Treves in Rhineland Prussia.

The Italians have begun a more vigorous offensive along their frontier, and have captured Pragana, an important advanced point of the fortified Riva group on Lake Garda. This will be of indirect aid to Serbia, preventing, as it does, the movement of any more Austrian troops from that frontier.

German Torpedo Boat Cut in Two by Steam Ferry.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A large German torpedo boat was run down and cut in two by a German steam ferry which left Trollberg, Sweden, at 6 o'clock Friday night with all lights out, says a Reuter dispatch from Malmo, Sweden. Only five of the torpedo boat's crew of 45 were saved.

Crown Prince of Serbia Had Narrow Escape From Capture.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia narrowly escaped capture when Hungarian troops entered Belgrade, according to a Budapest dispatch to the Berlin Kreuz Zeitung. The dispatch says high tribute to the Prince's bravery in personally directing the defense of the city up to the last moment and not leaving until the Hungarians were entering.

Several of the Prince's staff officers were captured and others were killed.

Bulgarian Minister to Russia to Be Tried at Sofia.

SOFIA, Oct. 18.—Not only has M. Majuroff, Bulgarian Minister to Russia, been dismissed from the diplomatic service, but he will be prosecuted in Sofia because of the interview he is charged with giving a Petrograd newspaper criticizing the action of his Government, it is said here.

Gen. Radko Dimitrieff (who is a commander in the Russian army), and all other reserve officers, who have not returned to Bulgaria, will be considered deserters and treated accordingly.

Italy Divided Over Participation in Balkan Campaign.

ROME, Oct. 18.—The question of Italy's participation or nonparticipation in the Balkan campaign is still agitating the country, which is divided into two camps.

It is asserted that the difference in opinion even extends to the Cabinet. A rumor is in circulation that Baron Romino, the Foreign Minister, who is leading the lead of M. Delcasse, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, may resign.

Those of the people who are opposed to Italy sending troops to the Balkans are countering alleged diplomatic mistakes which have compromised the situation of the allies there. This faction also argues that Serbia did not attack Austria when Italy began war against her and when they declare an offensive movement by the Serbians would have been most useful to Italy's front, preventing the Austrians from mobilizing their half a million men, who had been removed from the southern front.

Three Injured by Foreign Aviator's Bomb in Switzerland.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 18.—Three grown persons and one child were gravely injured, according to Government reports of the bomb throwing by a foreign aviator flying over the Swiss town of Chaux de Fonds. The Government has ordered an inquiry into the occurrence and will renew protests to the belligerent countries against violations of Swiss territory by aeroplanes.

Bulgarian Premier Shows Concern Over Russian Diplomatic Illness.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—By wireless to Sayville, N. Y.—A dispatch to the Berliner Tageblatt from Sofia states that the condition of A. Savinov, the Russian Minister to Bulgaria, who remained in Sofia because of illness after the break in relations between the countries, recently took a turn for the worse. Whereupon, it is stated, M. Radostavoff, the Bulgarian Premier, ordered the Chief of Protocols to inquire regarding the welfare of the Russian diplomat.

The Bulgarian Government has permitted the Bulgarian sanitary mission in Russia to continue its work, the dispatch adds.

Bombardment From Air Causes Fire in Fortified Belgrade.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Today's statement from army headquarters on operations in Russia and France says: "In the Western theater: The attack on the trench work northeast of Verdun, which projects far into the enemy's position, was recently repeated by the English with strong forces. All their attacks failed with heavy losses."

Yesterday German air squadrons attacked the fortress of Barfleur, drove off the enemy aviators and dropped eight bombs on the fortress. A number of fires were observed to have been caused by the explosions.

On the Eastern theater: Field Marshal von Hindenburg in his attack south of Riga made good progress. West of Ilkaut we captured enemy positions extending on a front of about 13 miles."

East Fleet of Allies Transports in Saloniki Harbor.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—A correspondent of the Temps telegraphs from Nish that he has just arrived by railroad from Saloniki, finding all along the line crowds of all the stations in Serbia awaiting the arrival of allied reinforcements for the Serbians.

Nish, the provisional capital of Serbia, is today, despite its intense anxiety and its mourning for the fallen among the Serbian troops, decorated with the national colors of the Entente allies in preparation for the arrival of French and British troops. The correspondent says: "They have been waiting for several days and some disappointment is felt at the delay in their coming. The news of the heroic resistance the Serbians are offering to the Teutonic invader sustains the people, who remain admirably calm and determined."

Saloniki presents an amazing spectacle of naval power. Besides the numerous ships of war there, vast fleets of transports, flying the French and British flags, is in the harbor. The crews of the city are crowded with troops in foreign uniforms, the khaki and the French service blue predominating.

INDIA AND THE SUEZ CANAL SAID TO BE REAL GERMAN OBJECTIVE

Constantinople Said to Be Minor Goal in the Teutonic Plans

W HILE Constantinople is the immediate aim of the so-called drive through the Balkans by the Austro-German armies aiding the hard-pressed Turk, it is a mere minor matter in the Teutonic plans. The goal of this expedition is Egypt and the Suez Canal, a distance of about 1800 miles from Belgrade, where the Austro-German armies are now established. If Germany could seize the Suez Canal, the British empire would be cut in twain, for it is this narrow strip of water that holds the great fabric together. India would then be menaced, thus accomplishing what Germany endeavored to do in peace times by the building of the Baghdad Railway.

From the Dardanelles, Promise of Which Won Bulgaria, Teutons Would Sweep Across Asia Minor to Their Chief Goal.

From the New York Sun.

THE German drive southward is revealing itself not as a punitive expedition against Serbia nor as a relief expedition for the Turkish forces fighting to hold Gallipoli against British and Colonial troops, but as an effort to gain by force of arms the advantage that years of diplomacy and peace have failed to secure. It is, according to semi-official pronouncements, a stroke for a swift passage of the Balkan mountain lands that will complete an unbroken German line from the North Sea to the Bosphorus, that will advance across Asia Minor to the Persian Gulf and India, and that will envelop the Suez Canal, Egypt, Tripoli and Algeria, the hard-won North African possessions of the allies.

If this be indeed the ultimate purpose of the present movement, its magnitude in its sweep and hold in its daring, for it must be remembered that Germany cannot count on any movement on the sea to aid her in such an enormous undertaking. It must be entirely self-sufficient in land, and must be accomplished in part literally on foot.

With the development of events it becomes increasingly apparent that Bulgaria's choice of allies was made some time ago. The glittering reward promised before King Ferdinand by the Teutons were apparently too much for his ambitious soul to withstand. The possibility constantly kept before him of wearing the crown of Byzantium and of controlling the Dardanelles was more alluring than was the acquisition of the narrow strip of Macedonia which the allies were prepared to yield to him. The weeks of indecision have been, after all, a cloak to cover the German preparations for what is now the boldest, most audacious stroke of the entire war.

Serbia the Weak Point.

In formulating the plan for a great drive toward the east, the position of Bulgaria has presented the greatest difficulty to the Teutons, since any advance into Turkey must sooner or later cross Bulgarian soil. But with Bulgaria friendly and co-operating, half the problem was solved. There remained then the choice of two courses of procedure: to violate the neutrality of Rumania to reach Bulgaria, or to fight a way across Serbia. The first of these was rejected, for Germany knows more about violations of neutrality than she did 15 months ago, and she would hesitate to break taking steps that would bring Rumania's fine army into the ranks of her enemies. Serbia, unbroken though she was by her last year's campaign with disease, seemed the weak point in the path, and here accordingly the Teuton entering wedge was directed.

On the west the natural defenses of Serbia are so strong as to discourage invasion from that direction. Rugged mountain peaks alternate with deep canyons for many miles along the southern Bosnian border, while further north are low lying swampy lands quite as difficult for military purposes as the mountains.

The most promising field for invasion is from the north over the plain of Hungary and on across the Danube and the Save. Here the line of the Orient railroad enters Serbia, a line which once held by the Teutons would expedite enormously their junction with the Bulgarian army and their advance on into Turkey and the east.

The two points on the Danube where the railroad touches are Semendria and Belgrade, neither of which are strong strategic points, and both of which seem to have been captured with little more than rear guard actions in their defense. It is evident that the Serbians followed the same tactics that proved so successful against the Austrians last year, will make their stand in the interior of the country, where the topography is in their favor and where, with the aid of English officers, plans, following the hard work for many months, in building defenses.

Bulgaria's Share in Advance.

Germany, it is presumed, will be assisted in her invasion by the Bulgarian forces working from two points, one in the direction of Nish and the other along the Vardar Valley, where she is

Government Gives Outline of Case Against New Haven

Boston & Maine stock, "and the appearance on the scene of John L. Billard, who took over the Boston & Maine shares temporarily."

That Billard went to Charles S. Melien's office and purchased the 10,948 shares of Boston & Maine stock, held by the New Haven without putting up a cent of money of his own, was charged by the Government attorney. Billard was financed in the deal by the New Haven, he said, and kept the fact secret while the New Haven was trying to get the authority of the Massachusetts Legislature to authorize the creation of the Boston Railroad Holding Co. authorizing the New Haven to own the Boston & Maine.

When Billard was the speaker said, Billard, who was down on the books as buying the stock at 125, sold it back to the New Haven at 150, he said. The New Haven's own book value at the time was $40, so that the road lost $15 a share in the sale and $10 in the purchase. "This meant," said the attorney, "that the New Haven for the use of the name of the John L. Billard for one year paid him $7,500,000."

"It will be for you to determine whether this money was spent in a regular and proper manner, or in an unlawful manner for the purpose of gaining a monopoly."

'COUNT' IS HELD IN $10,000 BAIL

Max London, Accused of Bigamy, Is Sent to the Tombs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Max Lyman, also known as Count Max Lyman, was arraigned today on a charge of bigamy and recommitted to the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail. Assistant District Attorney Botwin informed that the United States Department of Justice had filed information of bigamy concerning Lyman with the District Attorney's office. "When one of his lawyers told the Court his client was suspected by the Government of being a German spy, Lyman laughed, and an attorney then declared there was no foundation for the charge."

Lyman was arrested four days ago by Federal agents and later turned over to the civil authorities. He was charged with having married Amelia Wendt at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on Sept. 26, 1913. He is also alleged to have married, under the name of Count de Farnick, Lela F. Jensen on Sept. 3, 1914, and under the name of London, Rose O'Brien of Albion, N. Y., on Sept. 14, 1914.

The case against Charles C. Nicholls, president of the Charles C. Nicholls Realty Co., charged with embezzlement by bail, which was set for today in Judge Grimm's court, was continued by consent to the December term to permit depositions to be taken in behalf of the defense.

Nicholls is charged with embezzling a deed of trust for $7500 made by John D. Westermeyer on property in Nina place. He was not in court.

NURSE IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN SHOT BY A GERMAN OFFICER

English Woman Killed When She Fell on Way to Execution, in Allegation.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The execution, in Brussels, of Miss Edith Cavell, an English nurse, daughter of the late Rev. Frederick Cavell, former vicar of Swardeston, Norfolk, is certain to be made the subject of discussion in Parliament.

Such details as it has been possible to collect here are as follows:

The charge against her was aiding Belgians to escape to England. It is stated that she hid them in her house and provided them with money, addresses in England and helped smuggle them across the frontier. A German military court found her guilty and sentenced her to death by shooting. The execution grounds was a garden in Brussels surrounded by walls. A firing party of six German soldiers and an officer were drawn up in the garden and awaited her. She was led in by soldiers from a house nearby blindfolded with a black scarf. Up to this minute the woman, though deadly white, had stepped out bravely to meet her fate, but before the rifle party her strength gave out. She tottered and fell to the ground 30 yards or more from where she was to have been shot.

The officer in charge of the execution walked to where she lay prone on the ground motionless. He drew his large service revolver from his belt, took steady aim from his knee and shot the woman through the head as she lay. The firing party looked on. The officer quietly returned his revolver to its case and ordered the soldiers to carry the body to the house, where it was taken charge of by a Belgian woman acting under instructions of the Spanish Minister who had undertaken responsibility for the body pending arrangements for its burial.

It was through the United States Ambassador that the Foreign Office was advised of the fact that a nurse had been arrested on Aug. 5 had been executed, and that it was charged she had harbored fugitive British and French soldiers and Belgians of military age and had assisted them to escape from Belgium in order to join the colors.

Her relatives knew that she was under arrest, but her mother, Mrs. Cavell, who lives near Norwich, had not heard from her directly since last April. It is understood, however, that she had been taken to various kinds of hospitals to obtain treatment.

What has so deeply incensed many people here is the fact that a German woman on trial for espionage in September, at the Old Bailey, received a sentence of only 10 years of penal servitude. An accomplished German man arrested and tried on the same charge, was sentenced to be shot.

Many Inquire About Her.

Miss Cavell was a woman of conspicuous ability, according to the statements of many persons associated with her in the past. Both Mrs. Cavell and the nurse's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Walwright, have declined to say anything about Miss Cavell, but close friends say of her strong personality and ability.

Miss Cavell was married at Shorelitch Infirmary at Roxton, remaining there over three years and doing much charitable work among the poor, many of whom turned to the infirmary yesterday to inquire if it were true that she had been "done to death" by the Germans.

WOMEN QUARREL OVER HUSBAND OF ONE, BOTH ARE ARRESTED

Their Trial on Charges of Disturbing the Peace Is Postponed Until Oct. 26.

Mrs. Agnes Alsop of 2845 Folsom avenue and Mrs. Della Davis of 3242 Cote Brillante avenue, who quarreled in front of Mrs. Alsop's house last evening, will be tried in Judge Hogan's Police Court Oct. 26 on peace disturbance charges, their cases having been continued this morning.

Mrs. Davis told reporters that she went to the neighborhood of Mrs. Alsop's house, believing she would find her husband, James Davis, there, and that she saw him leaving the house and began to upbraid him. A lively dispute between her and Mrs. Alsop followed, and both women were arrested.

Mrs. Davis said Mrs. Alsop was formerly employed as stenographer by a firm for which Davis worked as salesman.

DO YOU DREAD THE COLD?

Some people enjoy cold weather, take pleasure in winter sports, and the keen air calls the pink to their cheeks and the red to their lips. Others shrink from cold and turn blue at the least exposure to frosty air.

The difference is in the blood. Rich, red blood warms the body. Every long breath of pure cold air increases the oxygen it carries to every part of the system. This blood is unable to take up the life-sustaining oxygen. The body lacks nourishment and the sufferer is always cold, takes a chill easily and is miserable all winter.

This blood is largely the sufferer's own fault. It results from neglect, because the blood can be built up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills supply the elements that the blood needs to make it rich and red and to enable it to carry more oxygen. Building up the red portion of the blood is simple but because this blood does not call attention to itself it is often neglected. Have you seriously considered taking a course of treatment with these blood-making pills? If you are in doubt write for information.

LONDON'S POOR THE CHIEF SUFFERERS IN THE LATEST ZEPPELIN BOMBARDMENT

Small Homes Destroyed; Steel-Concrete Roof Little Hurt by Bomb; Most Missiles Hit Ground; One Soldier in Casualty List.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The following account of the Zeppelin air raid on Wednesday night was prepared by a writer appointed by the Home Office:

"On the evening of Oct. 13, another aerial attack was directed against London, which differed in no material respect from those made on previous occasions. The enemy's vessel or vessels flew high, at an altitude chosen, no doubt, in order to prevent, as far as possible, the danger of damage or destruction from anti-aircraft guns."

"The darkening of the metropolitan area, together with the height at which the aircraft traveled, certainly prevented the enemy from discovering the exact position of places of importance."

"As on the last occasion, the official report issued in Berlin proves the raiders to have been grossly in error. In most cases, as to where the bombs were dropping their bombs, and if we can suppose that they had really some definite objective other than mere haphazard destruction of the lives and property of non-combatants, then, owing to the height at which they flew, they entirely failed to attain that objective."

"Except for one chance shot, damage was exclusively one not in connection with the conduct of the war. Of the 17 persons killed or injured, none, save one or two soldiers, who were in the street at the time, was a combatant."

Entertainment Places Open.

"As for the moral effect for which, presumably, the enemy was seeking, this was all to his disadvantage. The raid occurred at an hour when practically no one except children was in bed, and though the shops in the principal shopping districts were closed, places of entertainment were full, and the masses of the people were about their ordinary evening's pleasure or at business."

"A very much larger number of people, therefore, were aware of the enemy's presence than in any previous raid, but the population of London, though hundreds of thousands heard the sound of bursting bombs and the guns, remained cool and free from panic."

"When the results of the raid were examined next morning, five distinct areas could be designated in which damage was done, the first of these areas in which there is little or no residential property, some large buildings devoted to various kinds of business, comparatively few streets. In this area bombs were dropped containing high explosives, which, in four cases, fell upon the streets, and, in the fifth, upon the back premises of a large building situated with people."

"One of the bombs, which apparently was of large size, penetrated the street into the subways containing gas and water mains, and, in exploding, melted the gas pipes, setting off a fire which, though slight in extent, lasted for several hours."

"The explosion of this bomb damaged the buildings roundabout considerably and destroyed almost all the glass in the neighborhood. It also was responsible for a number of casualties, which will all be the subject of an inquest. Those killed were either sitting in the front rooms of the buildings or were working or walking in the streets."

Bombs in Flat District.

"The second area contains a large block of residential flats, some of which are occupied as offices. Like many other blocks of flats in London, this one has a stretch of garden behind the buildings, and one of the enemy's high explosive bombs fell in this garden close to the flats themselves. One or two rooms on the ground floor were totally wrecked and on the first floor considerable damage was done. Another bomb fell on the top of one of the buildings, demolishing the top story. In this area there were no casualties though several narrow escapes."

The third area contained a large modern building constructed of reinforced concrete, and with steel and concrete roof and flooring. Two bombs were dropped, one of them actually on the roof and one on the pavement immediately beneath the doorway. The bomb on the pavement appears to have exploded sideways. At any rate, the damage done, which consisted chiefly of broken glass and plaster, occurred in the houses on the better side of the street. The bomb which dropped on the roof of the building itself did little damage.

"The fourth district in which damage was done is one consisting entirely of what may be called working class property, with small, low buildings, some of which had no compensating military value for the enemy. One group of small houses in this area was entirely destroyed by a single explosion, and in the ruins are to be found, torn and covered with dust, a number of documents of some small business, which, up to 8:30, on Wednesday night, no doubt kept alive the owner and his family."

"In another spot in this district a bomb fell on top of a building used for keeping dairy cattle. None of the cattle was killed, though one cow was injured. The dairyman, with presence of mind and coolness, made his way to the top story of his house near by, in which all the windows were broken and the ceiling of the dairy had been blown down by the force of the explosion, and brought down his children to safety."

"On his way downstairs on the last journey a further explosion blew him back to the floor of one of the rooms, but he succeeded in bringing all his family out unharmed. After the aircraft passed they returned to their rooms until they were awakened again by the sound of guns about midnight."

Bombs in a Suburb.

"In the last area covered by the raid, this time in a suburb, there is not a single factory or business house and hardly any shops. There are no military camps, no store sheds, no aerial defense works, and no embassy chanceries and the property consists of detached or semi-detached houses surrounded by small gardens. It was in this district that, for some obscure reason, the largest number of bombs were dropped, and they must have been launched by what the commander of a Zeppelin, in his interview of the last raid, described as 'rapid fire.'"

"The actual period of bombardment did not last more than a few minutes from the spot where the first bomb dropped to the last could not have been more than 600 yards. Within 40 yards no less than five fell together, while nearly three fell in a single garden which did not measure more than 30 yards square."

"The striking and fortunate feature of the bombardment in this district and, indeed, of the whole attack on this occasion is the number of cases in which the bombs dropped, not on the buildings, but on the ground. In only three cases in this suburban area were houses actually struck, though, of course, the force of the explosions was sufficient to destroy whole houses, even at a considerable distance."

"At another point, where a bomb fell in the street, a young man was saying good-night to a woman at the front door of a house. He was killed immediately by a fragment of the bomb and the woman was severely injured. At this point, also, an old man, who was walking on the pavement, was struck and his arm blown off. He died in the hospital shortly afterward."

BERLIN STIRRED BY REPORTED KILLING OF UNDERSEA CREW

Indication of Severe Retaliation if American's Story of British Act Is Confirmed.

By KARL VON WIEGAND, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

BERLIN, via Sayville, L. I., Oct. 18.—Intense indignation has been aroused in Germany, especially in naval and army circles, by the dispatch from New Orleans containing affidavits which describe how the crew of the British patrol ship Baralong shot and killed the Captain and 10 of the crew of a German submarine after they had escaped from the boat. Several others were killed before they could get off.

These affidavits state that the Baralong flew the American flag and was otherwise masked as an American ship when she approached the submarine, which had stopped the steamer Nicotian in the Irish Sea. The affidavits were made when the Nicotian reached New Orleans.

The gist of the story of the alleged misuse of the American flag and of the killing of the defenseless Germans was sent here by wireless and has been featured in the entire German press; in many papers it was displayed prominently in black face type. The fact that the affidavits are by Americans gave them sufficient weight for general credence in the story.

In both official and public circles there is speculation as to whether Washington will investigate the misuse of the American flag in this case or will take any action. Already there are indications that severe retaliation will be taken, but I understand the Government is disposed to wait for all the facts and to confirm them.

NO ACTION BY U. S. IN NICOSIAN CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The State Department does not contemplate any action on the affidavits filed by the German embassy charging the marines and sailors of the British patrol boat Baralong killed the commander of a German submarine.

Officials pointed out today that the case did not differ from many others filed by belligerent Governments charging violations of military law and atrocities. The American Government has merely filed all such protests.

The use of the American flag by the British patrol boat is regarded as a rule in keeping with the naval practice of previous wars.

Captain of Nicotian Denied Story Told by Marines.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—Capt. Manning of the steamer Nicotian, shortly after the publication here of affidavits made by marines aboard his vessel, charging that marines of the British patrol boat Baralong had shot and killed the commander of a German submarine, after the undersea boat had been sunk, denied that such an act had taken place. He also said that he did not see an American flag displayed on the Baralong when it approached the submarine.

CATHOLIC ATTACKS WORRY OFFICIALS IN WASHINGTON

New Orleans Newspaper Criticism of Carranza Recognition May Spread.

FIRST CHIEF LONG FOUGHT

Morning Star's Statement Believed to Represent Views of Cardinal Gibbons.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The severe criticism of President Wilson by the Morning Star of New Orleans, a Catholic organ, for his decision to recognize Carranza is causing the administration much concern. For many months it has realized that its entire Mexican policy was not pleasing to the Catholic hierarchy and some of the administration's political advisers insist that "the situation is full of dynamite."

For approximately two years Cardinal Gibbons and other Catholic prelates have been seeking to get the administration to change the Mexican policy. Last spring Secretary of State Bryan was furnished with a great number of affidavits giving full details of the manner in which churches have been looted, priests killed and nuns driven from convents and subjected to gross abuses by Carranza soldiers. Affidavits are on the table to establish the fact that Carranza, acting through representatives, has from time to time closed churches and in other cases has allowed priests to officiate under extremely strict regulations.

The Vatican marked Carranza as an opponent of the church as soon as he began his fight on Huerta. It is believed here that the New Orleans newspaper's statement, which is accepted as representing the views of Cardinal Gibbons, is only the forerunner of a general attack upon the administration by Catholic papers.

Secretary Lansing before deciding on recognition definitely promised from the Carranza authorities that "no one would suffer in his life and property" because of religious beliefs. Administration officials feel therefore that the Carranza statement must be taken as an index of future policy and the attitude of the Carranza authorities toward the clergy awaited before judgment is passed.

Before leaving the State Department, Secretary Bryan knew he was being severely criticized throughout the South for the manner in which nuns and priests were mistreated. Determination of the form in which recognition of the Carranza Government shall be extended, was taken at a conference here today of the Pan-American diplomats. The conference had been called by Secretary Lansing and meeting with him were the diplomatic representatives here of Brazil, Chile, Argentina, Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala.

Will Present Note. Recognition by countries having diplomatic representatives in Mexico, it was believed, would take the form of a renewal of relations in an official way. The United States and other countries now without representatives in Mexico City were to accord recognition by presenting a note to Carranza through Eliseo Arredondo, his representative here.

A statement on conditions in Mexico based upon a report from Gen. Obregon and given out by Eliseo Arredondo, declared that the only organized opposition to the Carranza Government was confined to portions of the states of Sonora and Chihuahua, adding that an expedition had been sent to Sonora to assist Constitutional forces there in smashing the Maytorena army. The statement also announced the surrender of many former Villa officers.

Baltimore Catholic Organ to Respect "Will of Chief Magistrate."

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—Mr. E. F. Thomas, editor of the Catholic Review of this city, has written for this periodical: "The President has approved the recommendation of the Pan-American conference that Gen. Venustiano Carranza be recognized as the President of Mexico. We no longer kick. We obey the will of our chief magistrate. The protests of the Catholic Church in this country have not availed. Yet we feel no resentment. We regret the decision. It has been very clearly demonstrated that Carranza, from his career and character, is a man wholly unfit for the task of re-establishing justice, freedom and stability in Mexico. Let us hope the public, for lack of sources of information possessed by the President, has been deceived in its appreciation of the Mexican General or bandit. We await the outcome with foreboding and apprehension, yet not without hope for the best."

Brooklyn Organ Prints Denunciation of Carranza.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—In its issue of Saturday, the Brooklyn Tablet, the organ of the Catholic diocese of Brooklyn, printed a denunciation of Carranza similar to that in the New Orleans diocese organ, the Morning Star, of the same date.

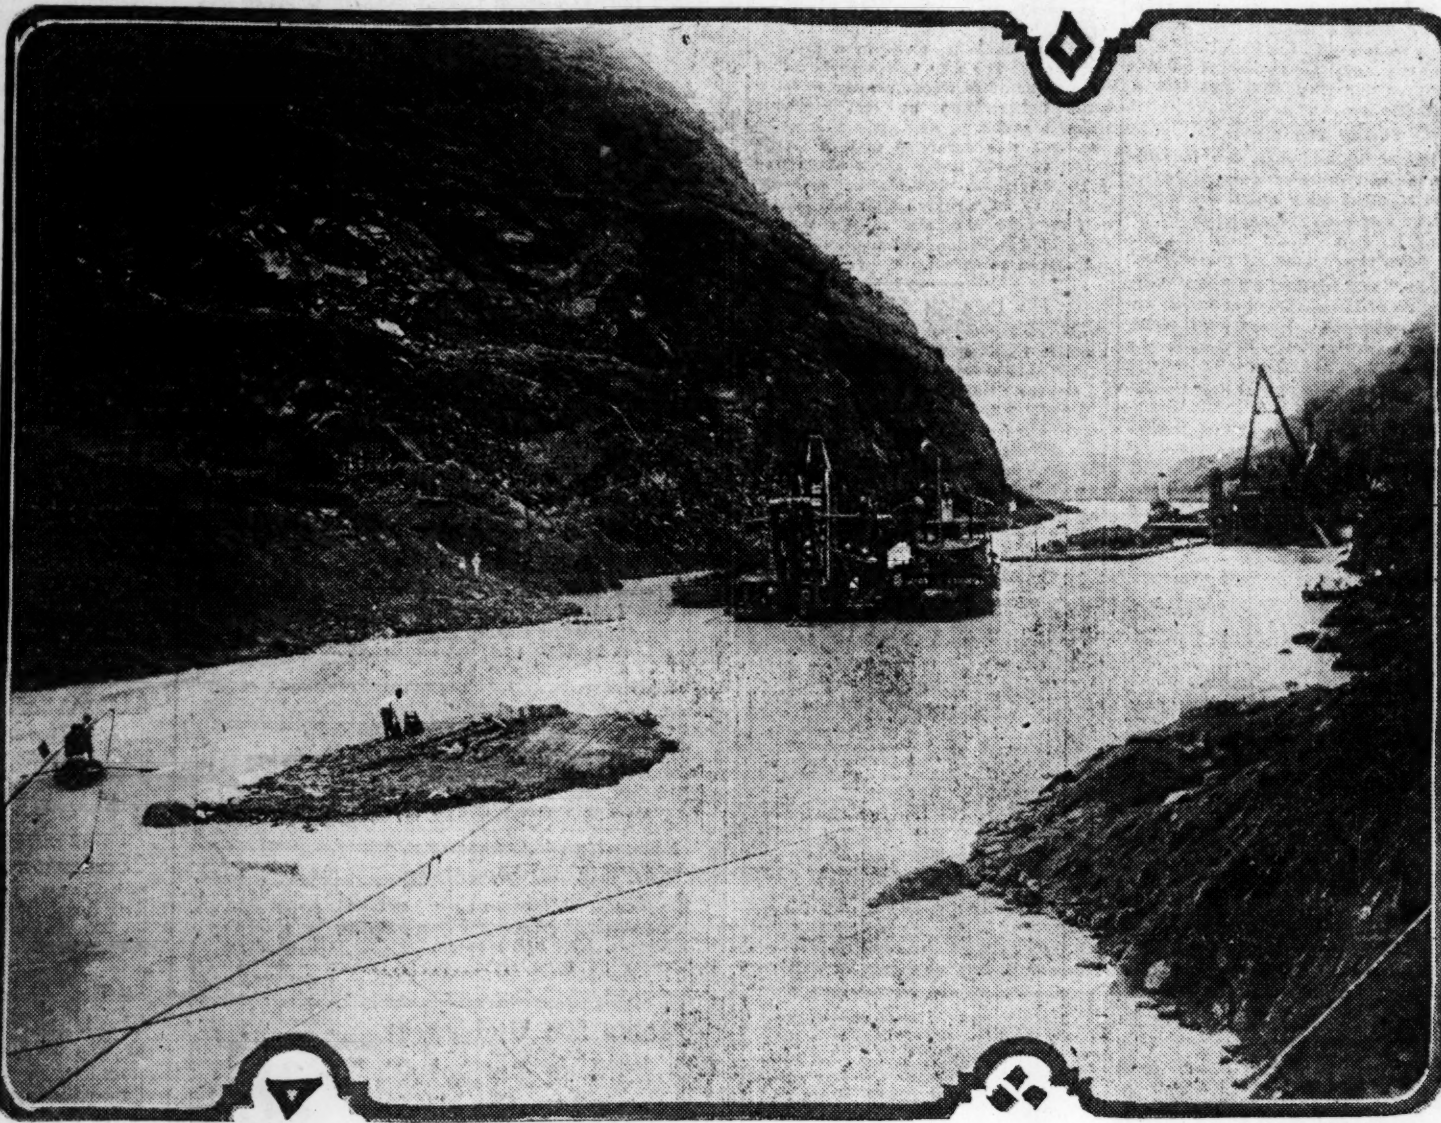

BEATEN BY MEN IN STOLEN CAR

Tamale Peddler Says They Tried to Take Him to Prison.

Jacob Schneider, a tamale peddler, of 1533 Carr street, informed the police that he was summoned by an automobile party of five men to Sixteenth and Wash streets at 1 o'clock this morning and that one of them tried to take his box. He cut the man on the arm with a bread knife and the crowd then beat him and abandoned the auto.

The car was later identified as the property of Charles C. Kliggen, 301 West Pine boulevard. It was stolen last night from in front of 4637 Westminster place.

Island in Panama Canal Formed by Newest Slide

The mound of earth forced up in the middle of the canal by the slides in the Gaillard Cut has been nicknamed "Goethals Island" by workers on the waterway. The channel on either side of the island is now only 15 to 20 feet wide, as against a width of 300 feet elsewhere on the canal. The depth of the water at any place within 100 feet of the island varies from 14 to 15 feet as compared with a normal depth of 45 feet in all unobstructed parts of the channel.

The canal will be reopened to navigation when the channel for a distance of 1500 feet in the Gaillard Cut has been widened to at least 100 feet and has been dug out to a depth of not less than 30 feet.

CARSON'S STAND BRINGS BRITISH CABINET TO CRISIS

Ulsterman Said to Be Dissatisfied With Conduct of War and Policy of Secrecy.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Another Cabinet crisis has developed, this time around Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster home rule leader, who became Attorney-General in the coalition Cabinet. It is reported that Carson has tendered his resignation and that unless the Cabinet takes his view at its meeting today he no longer will attend councils. A possible clew to Carson's position is given by Reynolds' Weekly Newspaper, the organ of Sir Henry James Dalziel, one of the most persistent critics of the Government in the House of Commons, which says:

"It is almost impossible to imagine that the next week or so will pass without changes in the Cabinet. Sir Edward Carson, the Attorney-General, has tendered his resignation because he holds strong views on the vital points of concentration and conduct of the war, without compulsory service, and has intimated that unless the Cabinet takes his view he can no longer attend councils. There is every reason to believe that the Cabinet will adopt Sir Edward's view and thus his resignation probably will be withdrawn. If this is the case, at least one and probably more resignations may be expected."

Sir Edward Carson is believed to be protesting against Cabinet secrecy and a system under which everything concerning the war is in the hands of a small committee of about four or five members.

"No resignation is tolerable at this stage," the Times adds, "except in the case of a man who has foreseen a long series of blunders, into which the want of policy has led us and has striven to warn his colleagues and has failed. That we must assume, is Sir Edward Carson's case, and everything now points to his being the first to reach the breaking point."

The Daily Chronicle, expressing the fear that conscriptionists will try to break up the Cabinet even before Lord Derby is given a chance to try his voluntary scheme of enlistment, gives a report that Winston Spencer Churchill is desirous of being in the fighting line and intends to join his regiment, in which case, the newspaper says, he would resign his seat as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the Cabinet.

COMES HERE TO BE WITNESS AT TRIAL, MARRIES INSTEAD

Edmund E. Menard Fails to Appear in Case of H. A. Nelson—Fare Was Paid.

The Circuit Attorney's office learned today that Edmund E. Menard of Springfield, Mo., who was wanted as a witness in a case set for last Monday, and to whom money was sent for his traveling expenses, came to St. Louis but immediately got married and forgot about the case in court.

Menard formerly was employed by the Avis Cider and Vinegar Co., whose president, Harry A. Nelson, is accused of having issued a false warehouse receipt, on which $500 was borrowed from the State National Bank. Menard was said to be able to testify to the contents of a number of barrels, which, the State charges, were filled with water, though the warehouse certificates represented that they contained vinegar. The date of the alleged offense was Sept. 2, 1914.

The case was delayed more than six months by the State's inability to find Menard. Lately it was learned that he was working as a cooper in Springfield, and $7.75 was sent him by Assistant Circuit Attorney Baer to pay for his ticket and traveling expenses to St. Louis.

Menard did not appear last Monday and the case was continued until today. Investigation, in the meantime, showed that he arrived in St. Louis last Monday, but instead of going to court, went to the marriage license office and to Justice Rice's office with Nora Delaney of 1715 Papin street and was married to her.

The bride told detectives today that she had not seen Menard since the day of the marriage. The case was continued until Nov. 15, and the authorities will try to again find the missing witness.

WOMAN ATTORNEY LOSES SUIT OVER CITY LAW POSITION

Mrs. Caroline Thummel McCarty Demanded to Be Examined for Head of Legal Aid Bureau.

Mrs. Caroline Thummel McCarty, of 4668 Labadie avenue, a lawyer, wife of William C. McCarty, a morning newspaper reporter, lost her suit before Judge Jones today to compel the Efficiency Board to permit her to enter the examination for the position of head of the Municipal Free Legal Aid Bureau. Mrs. McCarty, for a writ of mandamus, that she be appointed to the position of head of the bureau, was said to have filed a motion for a new hearing would be filed, and that an appeal was likely.

The examination was to be held more than a month ago, but was postponed because of Mrs. McCarty's suit. Thomas H. Rogers, chairman of the board, ruled that only men could take the examination. He testified, in a hearing on Mrs. McCarty's petition for a writ of mandamus, that he believed the position of head of the Legal Aid Bureau was a "man's job," and that situations would arise with which, in his opinion, only a man could deal properly.

Judge Jones held that the Efficiency Board had the power, under the charter, to enforce rules and regulations governing examinations, so long as it acted within reason. The only question, he said, was whether the board had acted reasonably in limiting this examination to men.

He said the court should not interfere with the administrative or executive department of the government, unless it was clearly of the opinion that such interference was justified, and that the department in question should have the benefit of any reasonable doubt. He said it was shown that the board had considered the matter seriously before promulgating its rule, and that "in view of all the facts and circumstances presented in connection with the case," the court was not ready to say that its action was unreasonable.

Pending the settlement of the mandamus suit, John W. Calhoun is filling the position by temporary appointment. He will take the examination when it is given and Mayor Kiel says he intends to appoint Calhoun, if his name is among the three on the eligible list.

PRESIDENT WILL SPEAK ON DEFENSE PROGRAM NOV. 4

He Will Open Campaign in Its Favor Before Manhattan Club in New York.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson will open his campaign for his national defense program in a speech before the Manhattan Club in New York on the evening of Nov. 4. It will be the President's first public utterance on the subject since he approved the plans prepared by Secretary Garrison and Secretary Daniels, and the speech is expected to be of significance, because the President is expected to disclose the reasons which he will urge upon Congress why the United States should be more adequately prepared for defense.

Today the President received a letter from the Maryland peace delegation for national defense, asking him to take steps to assure the United States against attack from abroad.

The five-year naval building program, which contemplates the addition of 18 capital ships to the navy by 1925, will be the normal capacity of American ship yards, in the opinion of navy officers. Secretary Daniels said today that fact had weight in determining over what period the expenditure of the $500,000,000 which will be asked for was to be distributed. American yards now are busy with new ships and have contracts to keep them engaged for several years. Without a great increase in both public and private shipbuilding facilities, the secretary thought it would be virtually impossible to construct the ships in any less time than the period fixed upon.

SUFFRAGISTS SURE THEY WILL WIN IN NEW JERSEY

First Great Eastern Fight on Question Takes Place Tomorrow—Spectacular Campaign.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 18.—The first great Eastern fight on woman suffrage is today only 24 hours away. At 6 o'clock tomorrow morning the polls in New Jersey will be opened to determine at a special election whether women shall be given the right to vote.

Two weeks from tomorrow the three other Eastern states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, likewise, will decide whether they will join their 12 Western sister states in giving women the ballot.

President Wilson's declaration for suffrage, reinforced by a thorough and vigorous campaign waged by organizations and workers, is expected by suffrage leaders to carry the day for suffrage in his home state of New Jersey. Their victory is sure, and by a comfortable margin, they state. On the other hand those opposed to suffrage are inclined to laugh at these claims, asserting that the proposed constitutional amendment to enfranchise women will be buried under an avalanche of votes.

More Than 500 Speakers. More than 500 women speakers and other workers went over the battlefield today, their automobiles carrying them through the sections where the fight will be hottest, into even the smallest towns and hamlets. In the big cities the campaign was similarly intensified. From many vantage points including thousands of street cars, cartoons and picturesque posters pleaded silently with voters to cast their ballots for woman suffrage.

Less spectacular, but none the less thoroughly organized, was the campaign conducted by opponents of suffrage. Party lines have been obliterated by the leaders working both for and against the cause. Some suffrage workers feel that both organizations are quietly opposing them, but there is no open evidence that this is a statewide condition.

Women watchers and workers to the number of 5000 admitted to the polls at the forthcoming election for the first time in the State, received their final instructions today and prepared to take their places tomorrow at virtually every one of the polling precincts in the State.

Individual Donations. The funds of the suffragists have come chiefly from individual donations. Mrs. George J. Gould is understood to have been a contributor. The largest single gift to the Woman's Political Union, Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, the president, said, was $500 and was given by a young woman over a period of more than three years. It represents her entire allowance for pin money. Hundreds of working girls, Mrs. Van Winkle said, were each contributing 10 cents a month. One girl, according to Mrs. Van Winkle, has given the union a dollar a month for four years.

Ten thousand dollars spent in street car and poster advertising is the chief item of campaign expenditure since summer.

Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare Speaks for Suffrage in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Eugene V. Debs, four times the Socialist party nominee for President, spoke in favor of woman's suffrage at a large meeting in Carnegie Hall yesterday under the auspices of the Socialist Suffrage Committee. Other speakers were Representative Meyer London and Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare of St. Louis, who is investigating labor conditions throughout the country.

ANOTHER NEGRO TO BE HANGED FRIDAY AT MURPHYSBORO

Gov. Dunne Determined There Shall Not Be Crowd Present as at De Berry Execution.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 18.—Determined that another public execution shall not take place in Murphysboro if he can prevent it, Gov. Dunne today wired Sheriff James A. White asking what arrangements he had made for the hanging of Elston Scott, a negro, next Friday. Scott was convicted of the murder of Clara Dalton, his sister-in-law. A plea for a reprieve is before Gov. Dunne, and is strongly intimated by his advisers that unless the Sheriff says that the hanging will be private the reprieve may be granted.

Gov. Dunne, in his telegram to the Sheriff severely criticized the public hanging of Joe De Berry, which he described as a "scandal and disgrace to this State." The Governor is particularly incensed because the Sheriff told him that the execution would be in accordance with the law, and the Governor took this to mean that it would be private. The telegram to the Sheriff follows:

"Hon. James A. White, Sheriff, Jackson County, Murphysboro, Ill.—I am informed that it will be your duty, unless a reprieve is granted, to execute a man next Friday. I therefore wire you in reference to the arrangements that you may make for carrying out the process of the law."

"Last Saturday an execution took place in Murphysboro surrounded by circumstances which, if they existed as described in the newspapers, are a scandal and disgrace to the State. The papers say that 2000 men were within the enclosure, witnessing the execution, and I am informed that the Sheriff admitted that there were at least 1000 people present, claimed to be Deputy Sheriffs."

"Such tragedies, when required by law, should be carried out with decorum and decency and in the presence of as few witnesses as possible, to wit: the jury, physicians, clergymen and necessary Deputy Sheriffs. I enjoin upon you the necessity of conducting this execution with decorum, decency and privacy."

FRED D. WILKINS ON TRIAL FOR KILLING COL. ALLEN M. WALKER

Louisiana Case Being Heard in Club at Bowling Green Because of Burning of Courthouse.

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., Oct. 18.—Fred D. Wilkins went to trial in the Circuit Court here today on the charge of killing Allen M. Walker, former Mayor of Louisiana and a Colonel on Gov. Major's staff, in Louisiana, the night of March 2 last. The trial is being held at the Boosters' Club, the Pike County courthouse having been destroyed by fire early Saturday. It is hoped to have a jury selected by tomorrow. One hundred witnesses for the defense and 25 for the State have been summoned.

Col. Walker died two days after the shooting. Walker told a physician, in summoning him by telephone, that he had shot himself, but when the physician arrived he said Wilkins had shot him accidentally in Walker's office.

The story of accidental shooting was destroyed by fire early Saturday. The body was examined and it was found the bullet had passed only through his shirt and underclothing and that outer garments bore no mark.

Wilkins and his wife declined to testify at the inquest.

PASSES CHECKS FOR $5 TO $25 WITH 24 CENTS IN THE BANK

With a balance of 24 cents in bank during the last year, Joseph Alinsworth, 32 years old, of 433 Labadie street, wrote many checks for amounts from $5 to $25. One of them fell into the hands of Mrs. Max Kugler, who runs a boarding house at 3127 North Broadway and brought about his arrest.

Several days ago Herman French, 47 years old, of 4633 Labadie avenue, gave Mrs. Kugler a check for $20.15. It was made out to him by Alinsworth and drawn on the West St. Louis Trust Co. The check was returned marked "insufficient funds." French, when arrested, told the police that he had accepted the check, in good faith. Alinsworth, who also was arrested, said that he had hoped get sufficient funds to cover the checks.

The police learned that among persons holding bad checks of Alinsworth's are Samuel Kahan of 1412 Biddle street, who has two for $14.70; Holstein Commission Co., two for $15.50 and the Leventhal Dry Goods Co., one for $10. Alinsworth said he lost money in the ice and butter business and passed worthless checks to get money for his family. He has a wife and two children.

BOY JOYRIDERS ARRESTED

Girls on Ride Tell Police of Escapee in "Borrowed" Machine.

Misses Agnes and Anna Moore, 15 and 16 years old, of 2383 Rutger street, yesterday told the police that they had been invited to ride in an automobile by Arthur Murphy, 15 years old, of 4108 Connetquot street, and Adolph Simon, 19, of 477 Hartford street. This information led to the confession by Murphy and Simon that they had driven off the automobile of Louis B. Wackman of 1706 North Vandeventer avenue from Grand and Lucas avenues and had abandoned it in front of 2348 Rutger street after joy riding for several hours.

Murphy was arrested at his home and Simon surrendred when he heard the police were looking for him.

AUTO FALLS 20 FEET OFF BRIDGE; ONE MAN KILLED

One of Seven Occupants of Machine Badly Hurt at Gravois Road and River des Peres.

George Friesz, 22 years old, of 707 Russell avenue, died at 2:30 p. m. yesterday at the city hospital from injuries received at 2:30 a. m. when an automobile containing a party of eight persons plunged into the River des Peres from the Gravois avenue bridge, which is considered by motorists to be one of the most dangerous in the city.

The automobile, owned and driven by Thomas T. Terry of 3917 Maffitt avenue, fell 20 feet.

Miss Marie Edna Ryan, 24 years old, of 341 Botanical avenue, is at her home with a fractured right hip, sprained knee and bruises. The death of Friesz was due to internal injuries.

Terry and other occupants of the car escaped with slight injuries. The others gave these names and addresses to the police: Paul Schmidt, 25, 2412 North Leffingwell avenue; James L. Wood, 25, 2412 St. Louis avenue; Helen Roberts, 19, 2414 St. Louis avenue; Margaret Taylor, 21, 2414 St. Louis avenue. Miss Taylor and Miss Roberts are not known at the address given by them.

The street where the accident occurred is about 90 feet wide and paved, but the bridge is only about 20 feet wide and crosses the stream at an angle. A to-list driving east, when they strike the paved street at the city limits, half a block west of the bridge, are prone to speed down the grade toward the bridge. At night there apparently is a clear, broad sweep into the city. Where the street narrows towards the bridge there is only a wooden railing to guard the embankment. Terry says the light at the right side of the bridge is not correctly placed and that he was misled by it.

The automobile was eastbound on Gravois avenue. It crashed into the railing and after tearing some of it away went over the edge and landed right side up in the shallow bed of the stream. Friesz was thrown out on the running board. The others scrambled out of the machine and climbed up the embankment and how many people were taken to the hospital and after receiving treatment was returned to her home.

Most of the persons who were in the automobile were reticent about the circumstances of the accident and would not have difficulty yesterday in learning the particulars.

Friesz is a butcher and is a son of Jacob Friesz, a druggist. Terry is superintendent of the Boatmen's Bank Building.

American Salesmen Tell of Humor and Red Tape in "Selling" the Allies

One Enterprising Yankee Has a Contract for Canned Irish Stew, the Tins Later Being Used for Handgrenades.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The American agent, drawn by the lure of war contracts and the exceptional demand for American goods in all lines, is becoming one of the most familiar figures of London, Paris and the other war capitals of Europe. He is taking the place of the American pleasure tourist, who has almost disappeared from the scene, and the channel boats, the great hotels and the boulevards now have a good quota of Americans telling their stories and relating their latest experiences in dealing with officials over war supplies. They are of the audacious and adventurous type and prepared on short notice to talk in round millions on a contract for horses, guns, munitions or supplies of any kind.

Two of the new type of war contractors chanced to meet at the Grand Hotel the other day, and after the usual greetings and inquiries about home, one of them asked the other:

"What is your line?"

"Canned goods."

"Selling Allies Irish Stew."

"Fine; just closed a big contract with the military people for a war ration."

"Well, we call it Irish stew in America, but over here, since the war began, I am calling it a war ration, and it has caught on fine. We take a certain portion of meat—good, first-class meat, and no poor stuff—and add a portion of rice, a portion of onions, a portion of carrots with seasoning; that, you see, makes a fine Irish stew, but as I say over here we call it a war ration."

"And what do you think?" he went on.

"We put up that stew in one-pound tins, and after they eat the Irish stew they're going to use the tin cans for hand grenades. Now that's a fact, and that's where our goods appealed to these military people the most—the double use they could get out of them—first as a war ration and then as a hand grenade, and that's what closed the contract."

This was told in all seriousness and was not a story of "the road," so that there is every reason to expect that the Irish stew made in America will soon be nourishing allied troops and afterward serving them as a receptacle for explosives to offset liquid fire, asphyxiating gas and other deadly contrivances.

The group of American traveling men had considerably enlarged while this talk was going on, and one of the newcomers remarked:

"I've got something that beats your Irish stew, but those people at the London War Office wouldn't adopt it."

Another English article.

He drew from his pocket a wad of pliable metal that gradually unfolded itself into the form of a perfect glove. It was made of minute links of steel, much as a lady's link purse is made, so that the linked-steel glove fitted to the hand and was flexible to all its movements.

"Have you noticed," he explained, "that the wounded Indian troops in the streets of London invariably have their right hand in a sling? This is because the Indian fighter, when he rushes a German trench, grabs the German bayonets as they're thrust at him, and when the bayonet is jerked back it cuts an ugly, double-edged wound in the Indian's hand. That's why half the Indian troops are in the hospital with wounded hands."

"Now, it was to meet just such a condition and keep the Indian on the firing line that we got up this steel-linked glove. With that on his hand an Indian can jump in a trench and grab a bayonet with no danger of a wounded hand. But somehow those War Office people wouldn't see it; they're standing in their own light, for every one of those gloves would have kept an Indian soldier at the front."

It appears to be the consensus of opinion among the commercial men that it is very hard to do business with the average European official.

First the bureau systems make an endless amount of circumlocution and red tape, and it is difficult to find out who is the official who has the real decision. And after that the travelers say that hide-bound conservatism stands in the way of the adoption of anything outside of old, well-understood models, many of which are out of date. They tell many strange experiences in their efforts to reach the right people.

"I was told," said one of the travelers, "that an introduction from prominent people was necessary to get you any attention. One firm advertised in London that they could furnish the right kind of introductions. I looked them up and found they were house agents. Then I heard that the Duke of — could give the sort of letter required. So I managed to see him, and told him that in America we were able to tell a customer when we saw one, and I was so anxious to see what a British customer looked like that I would be willing to spend a thousand dollars to have one introduced to me. The Duke said he would be glad to introduce the very man who had the real signing of contracts for my line of goods, and he would bring him to me in two days. I waited anxiously the second day, but he did not come, and I have been waiting ever since. But the Duke can do it if he wants to, there is no doubt."

Another representative of an extensive American industry related the following experience:

"An artillery harness for six horses is being furnished to one of the belligerent Governments for $354. The contract was first let as a whole to an American agent at that net price. But as the agent was not in the harness business, this being only one of many war contracts—he sublet it to another contractor who made a specialty in harness but not in harness, so that he in turn sublet the contract to us. Now I was able to go to these Government people and say to them that I would furnish this six-horse artillery harness at $318 instead of $354, and also would give them our first grade of harness instead of the third grade they are getting. Why it was just like offering a man gold sovereigns. But do you know they would not listen to me. No, they were perfectly satisfied to pay $354, and it did not appeal to them in the least to hear they could get something better for $318. That's what they call conservatism. Can you beat it?"

Aerial Cruiser Offered.

One of the most remarkable propositions put before the allied Governments was for an aerial cruiser, supported by seven gigantic aeroplanes, with a crew of seven men carrying 350 50-pound dynamite bombs, guaranteed to fly from the French frontier to Berlin and back or no sale. This was worked out with the utmost detail, with blue-prints showing a full something like the trim lines of a large steam yacht, and small quick-fire guns mounted on the bow and stern. Above this hull were the huge airplanes, in two alternate series, one above the other, so as to catch the "air billows."

The specifications were equally detailed, including several high-power engines. The arrangement of the planes and the construction as a whole had the approval of an influential aeronautic society in America. But the British and French air experts were sceptical, some of them declaring that what was presented on paper could not be carried out in actual flight, notwithstanding the offer made to build the craft and send it on a trial voyage before making a contract. It was thought that recent Zeppelin raids might inspire officials to take up this novel air project as an offset, but so far they have not lent a sympathetic ear.

Seeing the Sights.

A French literary man fell in with one of the new order of American commercial men the other night, and asked him if he had seen the sights of Paris. "Yes," he said, "but I find that the police have closed most of the sights."

"Oh, no," said his literary friend, "the real sights of Paris, the monuments, are always open—the Pantheon, Notre Dame, the Invalides, the Madeleine and the Louvre."

"Ah, yes, I have seen the Louvre thoroughly."

"Thoroughly?" said the French homme des lettres in surprise, recalling the labyrinthine vastness of the Louvre collection, "and how long did it take you?"

"Fully an hour," was the reply, which has left the Frenchman puzzled ever since.

RANCH LOST ON ROOSTER FIGHT

Nebraska Bird's Prowess Evinces Owner, a Grocery Clerk.

LYMAN, Neb., Oct. 18.—As a result of a rooster fight, Gus Stephens, a retired farmer, has deeded one of his ranches to Walter de Witt, clerk in a grocery store here. The men had been boasting for months as to whose rooster was the better fighter, and at last Stephens stacked a ranch.

A fight was arranged and a large crowd gathered under a big apple tree in the city park. The birds at first appeared to be evenly matched. After half an hour Stephens' rooster showed signs of exhaustion and not long after succumbed to defeat.

33 OF CREW ON TORPEDOED FRENCH STEAMER SAVED

Survivors of Amiral-Hamelin
Are Landed at Marseilles—71
Lost First Report Stated.

SINKING SHIP SHELLED

Austrian Submarine Said to Have Bombed Vessel When Passengers Were Escaping.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The Marseilles correspondent of the Petit Journal telegraphs that the mail boat Eugene Periere has arrived there with 33 members of the crew of the French steamship Amiral-Hamelin, which was sunk by a submarine. A report last night from the Havas Agency's correspondent said that 71 persons on board the steamer lost their lives.

The Amiral-Hamelin was under Government requisition. According to the Petit Journal correspondent she was torpedoed by an Austrian submarine without notice and while passengers and crew were being transferred to the boats the submarine bombarded the steamer, which was struck by 40 shells.

The captain of the submarine asserted as justification of his attack that the steamer was armed, but this is denied by the correspondent. Six of the crew were wounded by the bombardment. The sound of firing drew a French torpedo boat and an English hospital ship to the spot and the wounded and many fugitives were taken aboard by these vessels. The submarine fled at their approach, after firing two torpedoes into the Amiral, and sinking her.

The Amiral-Hamelin was of 3607 tons.

Less Drinking in Sweden With New Book System

Citizens Must Have Clear Record and Give Up Coupon to Get Liquor—Allowance Is One Litre in Five Days.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 20.—Although nothing so drastic as the prohibition measures of Russia has been attempted in Sweden, there has been, since the beginning of the war, a steady and systematic curtailment in the sale of liquor, which is approvingly regarded by temperance advocates as a "decided step toward absolute prohibition."

The "Stockholm system" of allowing each citizen only a fixed quantity of spirituous drink, which was inaugurated just after the war started, has now been extended to 31 of the hundred districts in Sweden, and according to a government order recently issued, will, after Jan. 1, 1916, apply to the whole of Sweden.

The "Stockholm system" which allows every citizen in good standing in the city to become a moderate drinker, while effectively preventing him from becoming a drunkard, was devised by Dr. Ivan Bratt, present director of the system, after all other expedients had failed. Dr. Bratt has been audited, condemned, idolized, and ridiculed, and his work has become the theme of almost daily discussion in the newspapers of Sweden, some of which criticize him for being too moderate and others too extreme in his reforms. But on one point all are agreed. The system works.

Profits Go to Government.
In the first place, the liquor companies, while directed by private individuals, were practically made Government concerns, for all profits were to go to the Government. This removed any incentive on the part of the directors to over-production. It was followed by a careful supervision of the supply of liquor furnished to hotels, restaurants and public bars. These places still had a right to as much liquor as they required, but they were only allowed profit on a reasonable amount of trade. If they did business in excess of that amount fixed by the Government, they had to purchase the additional supply at retail price, and were forced to sell at the same prices. This, it would seem, would have removed the zealous effort of hotel proprietors to make their liquor trade as large as possible.

But none of these expedients was successful. The total consumption of liquor was scarcely diminished. The amount of drunkenness in Sweden showed no decrease, and hospitals and medical re-

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S WILL RETURNED TO FAIRFAX, VA.

Elaborate Ceremonies Mark Restoration of Document Given Back to State by J. P. Morgan.
FAIRFAX, COURTHOUSE, Va., Oct. 18.—Martha Washington's will, which was taken from the courthouse here by a Union trooper during one of the battles of Bull Run and later found its way into the collection of the late J. P. Morgan, was returned to the county archives today with elaborate ceremonies.

Recently the State of Virginia sued J. P. Morgan in the Supreme Court of the United States to recover the document. Mr. Morgan suggested that it be placed in Mount Vernon, Fairfax County, Va., where, however, it was not in their court records and today it was restored to its place beside the will of Gen. Washington.

GROSS ADDRESSES CITY CLUB

Head of Tariff Commission League Talks at Luncheon.
Howard H. Gross, president of the Tariff Commission League, spoke before the City Club at the noonday luncheon today upon the necessity of a tariff commission along advanced lines. The Tariff Commission League is strictly nonpolitical, nor does it favor any particular tariff theory. Its purpose is to secure legislation that will take politics out of the tariff and put tariff making upon a scientific basis.

The league is urging Federal legislation that will create a strictly nonpartisan tariff commission that shall have broad powers of investigation, the gathering of data, the making of reports and recommendations and the hearing of complaints.

1400 COMPANIES UNDER SUSPENSION, FEES WERE UNPAID

556 St. Louis Concerns, Including Federal Baseball League, on List.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 18.—Nearly 1400 Missouri corporations, 556 of which are in St. Louis, are under suspension as to their charters, for failure to pay their registration fee to the state.

The law provides that no firm shall be permitted to sustain an action in court for bills or obligations, contracted for while such suspension is in operation.

Among the St. Louis concerns thus suspended are the Federal Baseball League, the Burns Detective Agency, the National Press Brick Co., the Dolly Varden Chocolate Co., Plows Candy Co., the Benoit Aircraft Co., the O. T. Crawford Vaudeville Exchange, the Shirs-Channing Electrical Manufacturing Co., the Hippodrome Theater Co., the Gayety Theater Co., Neustetter's Clook and Suit Co., the Halsey Automobile Co., the Missouri Taxicab Co., the Rozier Hotel Co., Anderson's Family Laundry, the Regent Laundry Co., the St. Louis Union Packing Co., the Muth Realty Co., and the Haydel Realty Co. Some of these firms, it is understood, are not now actively in business, but in the greater number of cases the suspension is the result of neglect.

Several insurance companies and three minor railroad corporations were also suspended.

The law requires the registration fee, $5 a year, to be paid on or before Aug. 1. A penalty of $5 additional is added for failure to pay at that time, and firms which do not pay on or before Oct. 2 are suspended, and the Secretary of State must add their names to the City and County Records of the various cities and counties in the state.

Secretary of State Roach has done this in the case of the firms named.

Up to Dec. 1 corporations can be reinstated by paying the $10 and filing their reports. If they fail to do this the charter is forfeited, and a new charter costs $25. Any attempt to exercise corporate functions after the forfeiture of a charter is declared to be a misdemeanor.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Many changes in the personnel of the army have been noted at the front," says the Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post, "since Emperor Nicholas took over command from Grand Duke Nicholas. The older men are being shelved in many instances in favor of younger and more active officers."

"Moreover, numerous officers of the class who are rated by the Russians 'silk-plumed courtiers,' are being displaced by men better grounded in military science."

CASE AGAINST T. P. GOLL IS DROPPED BY PROSECUTOR

Warrant Had Been Issued Against Realty Man Who Is Also

The charge of embezzlement by bail against T. P. Goll of 3306 Oxford street, an attorney and realty dealer, was nolle prossed in Judge Grimm's court this morning by Assistant Circuit Attorney McCullen because of insufficient evidence.

A warrant was issued against Goll Feb. 24 at the instance of Mrs. Claude E. King of Vancouver, British Columbia, then Mrs. Marie Scheuermann, a widow of 2024 Washington avenue, who alleged that Goll refused to return to her a $1000 bond which she had turned over to him to either sell or borrow money on.

Goll at the time said that he was withholding the bond pending a settlement by Mrs. King of an indebtedness to him growing out of a realty transaction. He denied there was any intention to convert the bond to his own use.

Mrs. King testified in a preliminary hearing that she bought a diamond last fall to be put into one of Goll's teeth and said she had also given him a gold cigarette case. No diamond was noticed in Goll's mouth at the time. Mrs. King was not in court today, owing to illness.

K. K. TULLY, ARCHITECT, DIES

Kivas Keedler Tully, 62 years old, of 5375 Cabanne avenue, an architect, died at St. John's Hospital at 7:30 last night from heart disease. He designed several St. Louis churches, among them St. Peter's Episcopal, St. George's chapel. He also designed the tower and reredos of Christ Church Cathedral. He served on the Mississippi River Commission and had been in the Government employ for 35 years.

He is survived by his widow, a son, James Tully, who is a cadet at West Point, his mother, Mrs. T. K. Tully, and a brother, James Tully of Glenwood, N. M.

The guests who have come on for the marriage of Miss Jessie Barr Wright to Dr. George D. Cutler of Boston are being very much feted.

Yesterday Miss Wright gave a luncheon at the Country Club and today Miss Clara McCluney entertained them at luncheon at the Country Club. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Overstreet will give a dinner in their honor. The wedding, tomorrow evening, at the home of the bride's father, George M. Wright, at 4467 Westminister place, will be one of the fashionable nuptial events of the season.

Miss Margaret Wright will be bridesmaid for her sister, Little Miss Jean Wright Ford will be flower girl and Dr. Cutler will have J. Lindfield Damon of Boston for his best man.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. William Barr, for whom she is named, has come from New York for the wedding, and the other out-of-town guests include Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindfield Damon, Mrs. J. L. Damon, Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman, relatives of the bridegroom, and his sister, Miss Mary Cutler, all of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Channing M. Wells from Southbridge, Mass.

For their wedding trip Dr. Cutler and his bride are going into the Maine woods to a hunting camp and will afterwards go to Boston, where their home, at 384 Commonwealth avenue, is in readiness for them.

Miss Edmonia Taylor Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Taylor Bryan of 4346 McPherson avenue, will be presented to society formally at a reception which her mother will give on Nov. 11.

An informal reception will be given, Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the Columbian Club, by the Sisterhood of Temple Israel, to Dr. Leon Harrison, rabbi of the temple, the congregation and all those affiliated with the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Harbert Taylor of 5795 McPherson avenue have as their guest the latter's daughter, Miss Donna Blair Rosebrough of Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Charles Louis Palms of Detroit, who was formerly Miss Isabel Walsh of St. Louis, on Wednesday will introduce her daughter, Miss Josephine Dickinson Palms, at a reception at the Palms residence, 452 Jefferson avenue, in Detroit.

The affair is of more than passing interest here because Miss Palms is a schoolmate of a number of the St. Louis boys of this winter and has come to St. Louis every winter with her parents to spend Christmas with her grandfather, Julius S. Walsh.

Each winter since she was a small child a party has been given for her at the Walsh residence, 3229 Delmar boulevard, so that she is almost as well known in her mother's old home as in Detroit.

This year she will share in the debutante affairs when she comes for her annual visit and at the same time she will be presented formally to St. Louis society.

600 DELEGATES AT ALTON FOR LABOR MEETING

Mayor Beall Not Invited to Address Delegates—Sessions to Last a Week.

The thirty-third annual convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor began a week's session in the Hippodrome at Alton, Ill., this morning. Mayor Edmund Beall did not welcome the delegates.

He told a reporter that he had not been invited, and supposed that it was because he is a "dry" Mayor.

H. C. Maddox, secretary of the Alton Trades and Labor Assembly, said, however, that the convention had nothing to do with the wet and dry question and that there was no intention of taking a slap at the Mayor. The convention, he said, wanted to cut out the frills which usually occupy half a day at the opening.

William E. Miller, president of the Alton Trades and Labor Assembly, and Roland Adams, business agent of the Alton Building Trades Council, welcomed the delegates and gave the gavel to John H. Walker of Springfield, president of the federation, who will preside at all sessions. Six hundred delegates are present.

Every hotel is filled with visitors. A ball will be given in their honor Wednesday night in the Turner Hall.

SOCIETY

A LUNCHEON was given today at the Woman's Club in honor of Miss Fanny Todd Clark, one of the season's debutantes, by her grandmother, Mrs. Hinman H. Clark, and Mrs. Ashley D. Scott.

The guests included about twenty of the buds and a few of the older girls. A long table was decorated with huge tassetts of pink chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

At one end of the room was the champagne table, decorated in the same manner as the large one, and at it were Mrs. Charles Todd Clark, the debutante's mother, Mrs. William C. McBride, Mrs. William A. Blodgett and the hostesses, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Scott.

The guests included Misses Isabel Scott, who recently returned from New York, Ellen McBride, May Foster, Nellie Tracy, Dorothy Blodgett, Mary Lambert, Marie Wright, Marie Church, Julia Tyler, Winifred Peunet, Charlotte and Juliette Reyburn, Blanche Turner, Matilda Overton, Isabel Capen, Elizabeth Holliday, Anne Collins, Ann Lummahl, Grace Taylor, Julia Papin, Grace Gettys, Jane Shapleigh, Katherine Pierce, Edmonia Bryan, Roberta Lewis, Isabella Wells and Gergette Madill.

FIRE DAMAGES TWO PLANTS IN MANUFACTURING BUILDING

Winter-Langeneckert Folding Box Co., and E. W. Magee Mfg. Co., lost $55,000.

A two-story brick building, 1212-24 Mississippi avenue, was damaged yesterday afternoon by fire which started with an explosion on the second floor. A part of the rear wall was blown out. The building was owned and the first floor occupied by the Winter-Langeneckert Folding Box Co., of which Julius Merz, 2235 South Compton avenue, is president. The second floor was occupied by the E. W. Magee Manufacturing Co., of which E. W. Magee, 2840 Lafayette avenue, is president.

Magee told the police that he and two employees worked on the second floor until noon. The alarm was turned in at 12:10. Magee said that in a corner of the second floor the company had a five-gallon can of gasoline and a five-gallon can of alcohol, but these were not damaged by the fire or explosion.

Merz estimated the damage to the building at $5000 and to the stock of the Winter-Langeneckert company at $15,000. Magee estimated his company's loss at $5,000. All losses were covered by insurance.

Five Die in Tenement Fire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Five persons were burned to death and three injured in a fire which swept through a five-story Third avenue tenement house early yesterday. The fire started in a coal bin in the cellar, where a tenant left a lighted candle.

PRESIDENT OMTS
CHURCHGOING AND TAKES LONG WALK

He Has Luncheon With Mrs. Galt and Remains With Fiancee Until Dinner Time.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancée, had a quiet Sunday. The President, instead of following his custom of attending church, took a long walk alone in the morning, and later walked to the home of Mrs. Galt, where he had luncheon and spent the greater part of the afternoon. Then he and Mrs. Galt took a walk about the residential section of the city, returning to the Galt home at dusk. Mr. Wilson went to the White House for dinner about 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Galt celebrated her birthday Friday and the President presented her with a bracelet watch studded with diamonds. The watch is small and the face is entirely surrounded by diamonds. While the platinum bracelet is encrusted with the same stones. Mrs. Galt's house was filled with flowers from the White House conservatories on her birthday. The President has arranged to have flowers sent to her every day and she seldom is seen without a corsage bouquet of orchids.

Friends of Mrs. Galt say that while preparations are being made for the wedding and seamstresses are at work on parts of her trousseau there is no air of haste about the work. It is said Mrs. Galt is contemplating a trip to New York sometime in November to complete her purchases. It can be accepted as a certainty that the wedding will not take place until early in December. Meantime Mrs. Galt is making an occasional visit to the local shops, and a well-known modiste and tailor are said to be at work on several afternoon frocks and her going away gown. This last is variously described as being of dark blue broadcloth, combined with seal, and as being of green duvetyn, with collar, cuffs and bandings of beaver.

The New Color Is "Bolling Green."

"Bolling Green" is to be the new color of the season, if the modistes are to be credited, for it is whispered that the shade—a dull, rich tone that sets off to perfection the striking coloring of the future first day—is to be the predominant hue in the trousseau of the President's fiancée. "Bolling green," therefore, bids fair to take its place alongside the well-known "Alice blue," made popular by Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, and "Helen pink," to which Miss Helen Taft was partial.

Heretofore Mrs. Galt has affected grays, black, white and marple combinations, which are strikingly becoming to her, but they are too closely connected by custom with half mourning to be allowable in the case of trousseau frocks, save to a limited extent. During her shopping expeditions about town, on which she is usually accompanied by Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Mrs. Galt wears either a dark gray whipcord suit, made on strictly tailored lines, with a small black hat and black furs, or a tete de negre walking suit, with a becoming white fur neckpiece.

Members of the official contingent here, and especially the women, are eager to know if the ceremony is to be in the morning, afternoon or evening, and more important than all—who is to be invited. Next in importance to the bride's gown looms the costumes which the women invited to attend the ceremony will wear. Handsome new gowns must be provided, but nobody dares go about the business of their selection until the time for the ceremony is announced.

Elaborate Wedding Hoped For.

Should the marriage be strictly en famille, with only Mrs. Galt's close relatives and the members of the President's family and of his household present, there will be great disappointment among persons of social and of official importance.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson to Mr. Francis Bowes Sayre was an elaborate function, for which several hundred invitations were issued, and was attended by the members of the diplomatic corps, all officialdom and a liberal sprinkling of resident Washingtonians, as well as many out-of-town guests.

Miss Eleanor Wilson's marriage to Secretary McAdoo was quiet and informal, but the Cabinet officials and their wives were invited, together with the leaders of the House and Senate and the members of the New Jersey delegation in Congress, a precedent which is likely to be followed in the present instance.

It has been reported that the Cabinet members are selecting a gift for the President's bride, to be presented as coming from them in a body, but such of them as have been interrogated say they know nothing of the project, so far. The Senate probably will follow the precedent of the two former weddings in the Wilson family. When Miss Jessie Wilson was married the Senators gave her a silver tea service, and to Miss Eleanor Wilson they presented a diamond studded bracelet. The House selected a diamond pendant as a gift to the former and to the latter gave a service of silver.

MANY AT NATIONAL PARKS

Number of Tourists to West Doubled in Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Reports made public by Secretary Lane show that more than twice as many people visited the National Parks of the West during the season just closed than last year.

The Yellowstone Park recorded 51,820 tourists compared with 20,250 in 1914. Yosemite 31,642 against 15,145 and Mount Ranier 31,514 against 15,053. The policy of admitting automobiles to the reservations will be continued.

W. F. Evans, formerly State Superintendent of Schools, will speak before the Doster Parent-Teacher Association at the school, Goodfellow and Maple avenues, tomorrow night.

IMPERIAL UKASE PROCLAIMS
"STATE OF WAR" IN MOSCOW

Russian Advances Have Attributed Disorders to Labor Troubles of Non-Political Nature.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 18.—An imperial ukase has been issued, proclaiming "a state of war" in Moscow and the Moscow district.

Disorders of considerable proportion have occurred in Moscow during the last few months. These have been chiefly attributed, in advice from Russia, to the labor troubles, largely due to many persons having been thrown out of work by strikes, and are declared not to have been of a political nature.

Mail advices that reached here from Russia last month described the June riots, in which several persons were injured and damage estimated at nearly $200,000 was done to property, as probably due to the growth in Moscow during the last 15 years of a hand-to-mouth urban population which had come in from the villages. This element was described as having lost the steady influence of village life without acquiring urban traditions.

Later reports of rioting in Moscow have come through Germany, a news agency dispatch on Oct. 11 telling of the building of barricades in the city's streets on Sept. 27, 25 policemen and eight high officials being wounded and

BOMB FALLS NEAR ITALIAN KING

Three civilians killed and 12 wounded, according to this account.

His Contempt for Danger Causes Commander of Army Great Anxiety.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—King Victor Emmanuel's contempt for danger, says a dispatch from Rome, is the source of one of Gen. Cadorna's greatest anxieties. Recently the King stood watching a battery in action on the Carso front when a hostile aeroplane flew over him. His staff begged him to move, but he refused.

Two Italian aeroplanes, meanwhile, gave chase to the enemy, which flew

The Chinese students in Tokio, several hundred in all, are actively expressing their condemnation of the proposed restoration of the monarchy.

KANSAS BOY, 17, KILLED IN DARDANELLES CHARGE

Death Is Learned of When Efforts
Are Made to Get His Release
From Army

LONDON, Oct. 18.—William Chilcutt, an American from Iowa, Kan., 17 years old, was killed recently while fighting with the British army at the Dardanelles. In June Ambassador Page received instructions from the State Department to make inquiries of the British authorities concerning Chilcutt, whose parents desired to obtain their son's release from the army.

Now Ambassador Page is in receipt of a letter from Sir Edwin Grey which says that "Private William Chilcutt of the Seventh Lancashire Fusiliers of the Mediterranean expeditionary force was seen to fall while engaged in an assault with an advancing force in the Dardanelles on Aug. 7."

IOWA, Kan., Oct. 18.—William Chilcutt, son of Albert G. Chilcutt, engineer for the Prime Western Spelter Co., left Iowa about a year ago and went to Bordeaux, France, with a shipload of mules. Later he drifted to Southampton, England, whence his enlistment in the British army was reported to his parents.

CANADIAN MAJOR GAVE LIFE TO SAVE HIS COMPANIONS

Tried to Throw Lighted Bomb
From Trench, but It Exploded Too Soon.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 18.—Thrilling incidents of recent fighting in the Aras sector in Northern France, in which members of the Canadian contingent are engaged, are described in an official communication received from the Canadians in France by Sir Samuel Hughes, Minister of Militia.

"On Oct. 8," says the account, "Major A. V. Roy, Twenty-second Battalion, Montreal, was standing in a trench issuing orders to Company Sergeant-Major Marion and others. The enemy trench mortar shells were falling in the vicinity. Brigadier-General Watson of Quebec had just passed along the trench when a mortar shell fell into the trench a few feet from Major Roy and his men.

"The shell did not burst on impact, and, rushing toward it, Major Roy bent down with the object of seizing it and throwing it over the parapet in order to save the lives of those near him. Before he could grasp it the projectile exploded, inflicting wounds from which Major Roy died. His gallant self-sacrifice has been specially reported by his brigade and divisional commander."

"On the afternoon of Oct. 8," continues the account, "the enemy exploded four mines at points on the front of one of our divisions, opening a heavy bombardment at the same time. The enemy advanced into the crater, but was driven out by our bombs.

"At one point two German officers led a party through a crater. One was blown to bits by our bombers and the other rolled back into the crater. This party then withdrew.

"A party of the enemy next reached our parapet and attempted to effect a permanent lodgment, but was driven off with fixed bayonets. Our companies manned their parapets and maintained a controlled fire wherever the enemy showed himself. The slight damage to our parapets was speedily repaired.

"The Twenty-second Battalion under Col. Gaudet of Montreal and the Twenty-sixth Battalion under Col. Embury Regina displayed great coolness in dealing with this surprise attack, which consequently failed completely.

"On the afternoon of Oct. 13 a demonstration was carried out all along our front. Our artillery fire was effective both against the enemy's wire and parapets. While the enemy's supports were being brought up they were subjected to heavy artillery machine gun and rifle fire.

"At one point, under cover of smoke, a party of 34 men under Maj. W. R. Brown of the Twenty-sixth Battalion, Col. McAvity St. John commanding, accompanied by Lieuts. C. Fairweather, Canadian engineers, left our trench to examine a crater close to the German parapet. An enemy bombardment was in progress and heavy rifle and machine fire was opened on the party. Maj. Brown was wounded in the advance, but continued to direct operations. The crater was entered and rendered untenable to the enemy and then evacuated."

Two Brothers Beat Car Crew and Kick 3 Police in Fight —Subdued With Night Sticks.
The Haley brothers, John and Frank, of 537 Easton avenue, and Thomas of 211 South Jefferson avenue, made good yesterday a boast they made several months ago that the only way the police would ever take them would be on stretchers.

The brothers were on a Wellston car and when the conductor, Thomas B. Knowles of 1446 North Grand avenue, refused to stop in front of the home of John and Frank they jacked the trolley from the wire and began beating Knowles. The motorman, Samuel Simmons of 514 Cook avenue, went to the conductor's assistance, but the Haleys had the crew on the ground beating them when a patrol wagon rushed.

Three patrolmen jumped from the wagon and three others, answering a riot call, telephoned to the Page Boulevard Station, took charge of the Haleys and loaded them into the wagon. Then the fight continued. Three patrolmen were kicked from the wagon and three others were mauled. The policemen finally got the upper hand by using their nightsticks.

When the station was reached stretchers had to be employed to transfer the brothers from the patrol wagon to an ambulance. They were taken to the city hospital, where they remained until yesterday afternoon, when they were released on bond.

Resinol Soap clears bad complexions

If you want a clear, fresh, glowing complexion, use Resinol Soap at least once a day. Work a warm, creamy lather of it well into the pores, then rinse the face with plenty of cold water.

It does not take many days of such regular care with Resinol Soap to show an improvement, because the Resinol medication soothes and refreshes the skin, while the pure soap, free of alkali, is cleansing it.

When the skin is in a very neglected condition, with pimples, blackheads, redness or roughness, spread on first a little Resinol Cream for ten or fifteen minutes before using Resinol Soap.

Resinol Soap is not artificially colored, but its bright hue is entirely due to the Resinol medication it contains. Transparencies sent on all orders and delivered in color. For a trial use one of our Resinol Soap, Resinol Cream or Resinol Lotion.

JOFFRE AT PHONE 22 HOURS DURING CHAMPAGNE DRIVE

French Commander Didn't Sleep, Eat or Drink During All That Time.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—A Paris paper gives an account of how Gen. Joffre, commander in chief of the French, directed the operations in the Champagne region. Taking a post close to the front in an innkeeper's kitchen, where a telephone had been installed, Gen. Joffre, bending over a large scale map, listened to officers at the telephone and at intervals gave his orders in an absolutely calm voice.

"In this position," the newspaper account says, "Gen. Joffre remained more than 22 hours—from 9 o'clock in the morning until 7:30 the next morning—neither eating nor drinking during the whole time."

At the end of that period, after marking certain places on the map, he put down his pencil and said: "It is over. Let us go take a bite."

Three-quarters of French Forces in Central Drive, Joffre Order Said. BERLIN, Oct. 18, by wireless to Sayville.—This official communication was issued yesterday:

"The hopes put by our enemy in their last offensive and the forces they employed in it are illustrated, aside from Gen. Joffre's order of Sept. 14, which already has been published, by the following order found on a dead French staff officer: 'East Army Headquarters, Third Bureau, No. 12,975, General Headquarters, Sept. 12.—Secret order for northern and middle army groups.

"To all regiments must be explained, possibly in the following way, the enormous force of the blow which will be executed by the French and British armies:

"In the operations will take part 35 divisions under Gen. Castelnau, 18 divisions under Gen. Foch, 13 English divisions and 15 cavalry divisions, among which are five English. Further prepared to enter the battle are 13 infantry divisions of the Belgian army."

"Three-quarters of the French forces will participate in the central battle, helped by 2000 heavy and 3000 field guns. The provisions of munitions are now larger than at the beginning of the war."

"All the preliminary conditions for certain success now have been removed. It would be remembered that only 15 divisions and 350 heavy cannon entered into the last offensive near Arras."

3 CHINESE TRIED FOR HAVING 130 PISTOLS IN POSSESSION

Testimony Shows Weapons and Ammunition Were Given Them by German to Be Sent to India.

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 18.—Three Chinese have been placed on trial here before a mixed court charged with having in their possession 130 pistols and 30,000 cartridges.

It was testified that a German had delivered to them a consignment of this, declaring they contained medicine, whereas the actual contents of the tins were the pistols and cartridges in question and had arranged to have the weapons and ammunition shipped to India, instructing the Chinese to pack them between planks, hewing and planing the wood in such a manner that a pair of planks would look like a single one.

An inquisitive carpenter, it was testified, disclosed the plan.

DES PERES BONDS OPPOSED

Tenth Ward Improvement Body Against Improving Stream.

Members of the Tenth Ward Improvement Association, at their meeting yesterday afternoon, placed themselves on record as opposed to the proposed $100,000 bond issue to improve, among other things, the River des Peres and, by straightening its channel, to build a storm sewer to drain a large part of West and South St. Louis.

Some members said the improvement would be of more benefit to St. Louis County than to the city, and others took the position that the high water in August, when 10 persons lost their lives, was from an unprecedented rain and might never again occur. The association also took action opposing increase in the number of playgrounds.

MASONS DEDICATE $2,000,000 TEMPLE AT WASHINGTON

Elaborate Ceremonies Attended by Distinguished Members from All Over Country.

4 YEARS IN BUILDING

Magnificent Structure to be Headquarters for Mother Council of the World.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The new two million dollar Masonic Temple, headquarters of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Freemasonry for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, which also is called the Mother Council of the World, was dedicated here today with elaborate ceremonies and in the presence of a large assemblage of distinguished Masons from many parts of the country.

The day was raw and rainy but the open air exercises were carried out in the presence of hundreds of invited guests in front of the temple. Among those who saw the dedication was John Russell Pope, the architect who designed the structure.

The stately structure fashioned after the famous mausoleum erected for King Mausolus by Queen Artemisia at Hal-carnassus—one of the seven wonders of the ancient world—is unique among the many magnificent buildings in the National Capital. It has been under construction since 1911. It stands on Sixteenth street about one mile from the White House on the Capital's finest boulevard and in a section of the city where many of the nation's most celebrated public men have lived during their public service in Washington.

The ceremonies were performed by Sovereign Grand Commander George
Fleming Moore, assisted by Lieutenant Grand Commander Charles E. Rosenbaum and Sovereign Grand Inspectors
General Charles F. Buck of Louisiana, Ernest B. Husey of Washington, Terranion W. Hugo of Minnesota, John H.
Cowles of Kentucky, John W. Morris of West Virginia, Adolphus L. Fitzgerald of Nevada and Sam F. Cochran of Texas
the next highest officers of the Supreme Council.

Among Masons from other jurisdictions present were Sovereign Grand Commander Benjamin Allen of Canada,
Leon Abbott, lieutenant grand commander and Sovereign Grand Inspectors General James H. Coddling, secretary general; Harry J. Guthrie of Delaware,
James B. Krause of Pennsylvania,
Charles T. Gallagher and Frederick W.
Hamilton of Massachusetts, Robert A.
Shirreff of New Jersey and George W.
Currier of New Hampshire.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN CASE OF WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO

Coroner After Inquest Says Several Street Corners Are Made Dangerous by Absence of Lights.

The Coroner's jury in the inquest into the death of Miss Grace Bibb, 24 years old, of 5534 Cabanne avenue, who died Friday night after she had been hit by an automobile on Bell avenue near Cabanne avenue, returned a verdict of accident this morning.

Robert F. Grady of 1218 North Union avenue, president of the St. Louis Terra Cotta Co., who was driving the machine at the time of the accident, attended the inquest with his wife, who was a witness of the accident. On the advice of Grady's lawyer, he and his wife refused to testify.

No testimony was given as to the circumstances of the accident, although several witnesses said they saw the woman lying in the street just after the accident. A fracture of the skull caused her death.

Coroner Padberg said after the inquest that he would write a letter to the Board of Public Safety asking that the corner at Bell and Cabanne avenues and other corners in the city be properly lighted. He said that absence of lights made this and other corners dangerous.

AMERICAN FRUIT FOR ARGENTINE

Ship Sails From New York With 2000
Tons of Apples and Pears.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—It is the good old summer time in the Argentine, but the people there are going to have the fruits of our season, even if they do come high. The Lamport & Holt liner Vestris sailed for the South American republic yesterday with 2000 tons of Oregon apples and California pears and 100 tons of potatoes.

Both the apples and pears will sell in Buenos Aires for about 15 cents apiece.
Some of them will be dropped off at Rio Janiero, where the Brazilians are craving them. They were refrigerated on their way here by rail and placed in the best refrigerators on the Vestris.

TALK OF FOLK FOR THE SENATE WITH MAJOR'S SUPPORT

Forthcoming Visit Causes Predictions of Deal With Governor and Francis.

Word from Washington that former Gov. Folk would come to Missouri within the next week or 10 days to "look things over," caused much comment today among Democratic politicians, some of whom are of the opinion that Folk's visit will mean a deal with Gov. Major and David R. Francis by which Folk, instead of Gov. Major, will be the candidate against Senator James A.
Reed for the nomination for United States Senator next year.

It is not thought that Major and Francis could be brought to support Senator Reed for renomination under any circumstances, and as to the Governor's own aspirations toward senatorial honors, his friends are expected to bring him to a realization of the extent to which his administration has been discredited. It is believed, however, that the Folk strength in the State, backed by the support of Major and Francis, would mean a hard fight for Reed in the primary. Reed's opposition to the policies of the Wilson administration at the beginning of the last Congress is against him and would help Folk.

Gov. Major is said to have given much consideration to the idea of opening a law office in St. Louis at the expiration of his term as Governor. The Supreme Court term of his personal friend, Charles G. Revelle, whom he appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge John C. Brown, will expire at the same time as his, and there have been rumors that the two contemplated forming a law partnership in St. Louis. This plan might depend somewhat on the result of Revelle's campaign for nomination for Judge in the next primary.

Stone Is Aiding Reed.
Senators Reed and Stone have been devoting much of their time in the last few months toward making the road to renomination as easy for Senator Reed as possible. Their friends have expressed the opinion frequently that Reed would have no opposition.
Much of the work of the two Senators has been directed toward discrediting Gov. Major wherever possible, the holding of big Democratic meetings in various parts of the State having little other purpose. The Senators, in arranging these meetings, placed them in anti-Major territory adjacent to districts which Major carried for Governor.

The anti-Reed men doubt that Folk could carry St. Louis, but they would count on the active support of Francis for Folk, as well as the opposition to Reed in Kansas City. Folk always has been strong in Kansas City, and has much strength throughout the rural districts.

Politicians from many parts of the State report that while Major himself probably could not get the votes of those persons dissatisfied with Senator Reed because of his opposition for a time to President Wilson, the Governor could carry much of his old support for Folk or some other person.

Folk Looked Upon as Governorship.
Folk has been talked of for the nomination for Governor, but it is known that he has not looked favorably on this proposal. United States Subtreasurer W.
D. Vandiver, a close friend of Folk, has told his friends that Folk would not consider being a candidate for Governor unless all other candidates should withdraw.

Folk has maintained his organization throughout the State with a view to having active Democrats in each county who would be ready to support him if he should decide to become a candidate for any office. He had the members of his organization meet him in St. Louis last winter, and at that time the political situation was thoroughly considered.
Several of these friends will come to St. Louis to meet Folk upon his coming visit.

CONFUSED MAN TAKEN IN CHARGE

Has More Than $7500 in Money,
Check, Stock and Valuables.

William J. Walker, 62 years old, was taken to the city hospital this morning for observation. There he was found to have $20.50 in money, a $500 check on a Denver bank, a gold watch, a ruby stud and $800 stock in the Vindicator Consolidated Gold Mining Co. of Denver. Walker, who was well dressed, had called at the Lafayette Park police sub-station and asked to be directed to Stout avenue. There is no Stout avenue or street in St. Louis. Walker, who seemed to be in a state of confusion, said that he had recently come from Canaan, Ind., and wanted to visit a bond broker on Stout avenue. He could not tell why he was in St. Louis nor where he had been staying here. Walker said that he had once lived in Denver and that he had driven the locomotive of one of the first relief trains sent to Chicago after the big fire.

DOCTOR DIES OF DISEASE HE GOT TREATING FRIEND

Dr. Richard H. McBaine Directed Own Treatment Though He Knew Death Was Certain.

Dr. Richard H. McBaine, 32 years old, of 4349 Olive street, died yesterday in Barnes Hospital of blood poisoning, contracted more than six months ago, when he was treating a friend.

He knew during nearly all of his illness that he could not recover, and every day has consulted and advised with physicians who were treating him as to the methods employed. The disease caused a slow wasting of his veins and arteries, creating a condition which has baffled medical skill.

Five weeks ago Dr. McBaine went to Denver, hoping for improvement in his condition, but two weeks ago returned to Barnes Hospital.

Dr. McBaine was born in Columbia,
Mo., where his father, the late Turner
McBaine, was a banker and farmer. Dr.
McBaine was graduated from Missouri University and from the Physicians and Surgeons College in New York. The funeral will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Columbia.

CHIEF OF POLICE OF GALESBURG, ILL., KILLED IN RAID

Lynn Matthews Shot Through Lung—Alleged Slayer Is Sent to Peoria for Safety.

GALESBURG, Ill., Oct. 18.—Lynn Mathews, Chief of Police, was shot and killed last night when leading a raid on a negro gambling house. When the officers called on the negroes to submit to arrest they refused and opened fire with revolvers. A bullet believed to have been fired by "Lottie" Hopkins, passed through the Chief's right lung and he died in a short time.

Matthews was appointed Chief last May. He is the second Chief of Police of this city to be shot within a year.
Fred R. Hinman was wounded by a Mexican whom he attempted to arrest about a year ago, receiving a wound from which he still is suffering.

Hopkins was arrested later at his home and hurried to Peoria to avoid any danger of violence. He was slightly wounded.

NEGRO BURNED TO DEATH

Another Badly Hurt in Fire That De-troys Frame House.

One negro lost his life and another was seriously injured when fire destroyed a two-story frame house at 4000
Papa street about 9 o'clock last night.
George Banks, 37 years old, was found burned to death in his room. Ulysses Hansworth's back was broken in jumping from a window on the second floor.
He was taken to the city hospital. He is 42 years old.

The fire was caused by an overheated store in the room of Thomas Galloway, also a negro, who was absent at the time. Other negroes escaped by sliding down a water spout. The building was owned by John H. Vette of 3120 Hawthorne boulevard, a money lender.

Advice From a Stranger.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Being a stranger in your gates and not intending to become a citizen of your State, I beg that you will excuse me if I comment on your city and State officials for certain omissions that strike the stranger that visits your city.

You have many fine streets and boulevards. Your parks will compare with those of other cities and there are many fine views to be had of pleasant homes, large factories and business houses. But why don't you place the name of all your public parks, schools, colleges and public municipal or state institutions on or about them, so that he who rides a street car or auto might read easily.

And then if you would place at certain public places a plat of your city showing to us what we can reach with the least expenditure of time and money, you would confer a great favor to the strangers that annually come to your city. You have a fine lot of street cars; we know for we have tried them severely for two days and never found one wanting.

To an Iowa man your beer signs don't look good; if you could replace them with flour, feed and clothing signs it would look better. We haven't been here for a week but just comfortably neutral while here, drinking a little river water and wishing for our drink from the well on the Iowa farm.

Don't be too modest when you build fine structures. Write above the door who built it and for what purpose he erected it, and if we should ever visit your city again we'll visit them all we can.

AN IOWAN.

That Seismic Railway Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why mar the natural beauty of our park by a railway which would bring mostly amusement seekers. I think one who really appreciates our museum should also realize the beauty of its surroundings.

AN OBSERVER.

Nonpartisanship in School Board.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In the election of Mr. J. P. Harper as executive officer of the Board of Education the members sustained an admirable precedent that has been followed for 20 years. Not only this but the election sustained the public demand that the public schools shall be kept apart from political spoils.

Dr. Harper is Dean of the St. Louis Dental College and has always been determinedly non-partisan in his ideas and work as a member of the Board. There is a working Republican majority in the Board, but it is now a certainty that the non-partisan policy will be continued, and it may be added that an important contributing agency to this very desirable end has been the efficient work of the Post-Dispatch against any attempt to return politics to the administration of the Board.

Dr. Harper declared to this writer today that there is no political feeling in the Board and that even the subject of politics has not been discussed in the meetings of the Board or by the members outside of the meetings.

FRANK R. BIGNET.

Noisy Trains.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why is it necessary for the Washburn trains passing Cates and Hedlamont avenues to make so much noise every time they reach that particular point? Ordinarily the noise from the puffing of the engines, ringing of the bells and switching is nerve-racking, but for the past few days the noise has been almost continuous, scarcely an hour passing without the noise. It is not an annoyance, it is a nuisance. We live quite a distance from the tracks this seemingly unnecessary racket has been almost maddening. If an official of the Washburn road would spend a day in this vicinity he would be compelled to admit that this is not an unjust complaint. Can't something be done to put an end to this terrible nuisance.

GRATEFUL.

Raw Cotton and Dry Goods.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Kate Richard O'Hare asks you to tell her why with cotton selling at 5 cents a pound, manufactured cotton goods are so high. It is very simple. The cotton which sold for the price she mentions will not appear as cloth on the counters of St. Louis stores for about two years. By that time we will have forgotten what the manufacture paid for the raw staple. Two years ago cotton was selling from 11 to 14 cents and it is the cotton which you get in the stores now.

BO BO.

THE NEW "CONTINENTAL ARMY."

To that proposed auxiliary military force which with minor differences in technical meaning is called the landwehr, the landsturm, the yeomanry, the territorial force, the special reserve in other countries, Secretary Garrison would apply in this country the name Continental Army.

It is a happy selection. It is linked with some of the most patriotic of American associations. It creates favorable presumptions at the start, whereas another name savoring of European militarism might condemn.

The full details of the plan, as yet withheld, will have the natural interest attaching to the greatest innovation in our military history. From the outline given it appears that the Continental Army will be a part of the Regular Army, differing from it in the terms relating to service. Men will be enlisted for six years, during half of which period they will be engaged only two months each year on active service with pay. During the last three of the six years they will be relieved from service but will be subject to emergency call.

The new branch of national defense is to be officered by qualified men selected from civil life—men who have passed through the school of the regular army and militia, graduates of military academies and state agricultural colleges and others. Doubtless many of the officers on the long and rapidly lengthening retired list of the army will be utilized as instructors.

The most startling feature of the plan is that the Continental Army is to have a strength of 400,000 men. The Regular Army is also to be increased to 140,000 or 150,000 men. Will a country whose recruiting spirit in time of peace often makes it difficult to keep its small standing force up to 80,000 be equal to the task of supplying 460,000 more men than it has ever supplied for military duty since the Spanish War? Much will depend on the attitude of employers, whose co-operation can contribute materially to success.

Enlistments for part time during three years ought to be much more attractive than full-time enlistments. The Continental Army may be expected to have a large appeal for thousands who drift aimlessly in the earlier years of manhood. It can be made a great school for turning inefficient into efficient.

Jefferson City was made the goal of the automobile reliability run. Could the Jefferson City machine stand a reliability run?

ILLINOIS OUTDOES MISSISSIPPI.

Reports of the execution of two negroes in Mississippi, which was converted into a frolic, aroused national condemnation before their accuracy was disputed, but there can be no doubt as to the similar reports describing the hanging of Joe de Berry at Murphysboro, Ill.

Under the law authorizing the admission of the number of deputies made "necessary" by duty, Sheriff White deputized 2000 persons and gave them access to the open-air inclosure where the hanging took place. Crowds estimated at from 5000 to 7000 surrounded the stockade or witnessed the spectacle from trees or elevated windows.

Little majesty is left to the law vindicated in a manner so unseemly. Gov. Dunne should not encourage, by a failure to act, future spectacular mockeries of the sort. Now that it is all over, Sheriff White himself would not contend that 2000 deputies were "necessary."

BIRDLESS BELGIUM.

"Not as much as a crow or a sparrow hovers over the ruins of Belgium," writes a correspondent of the Koelnische Zeitung.

All bird life took wing when the cannon began to belch fire and fumes; and when their nests were destroyed by shrapnel.

"The absence of bird chatter and morning and evening carols," adds the correspondent, "is distinctly felt, and constitutes a marked defect in nature's physiognomy."

Great flocks of birds were seen crossing over the Rhine in the early days of August of last year; and not a beetle or caterpillar is to be seen in Germany, which, according to the paper, swarms with hungry birds.

The Paris Temps deplores the loss to France of the Argonne nightingale, a charm of that forest and an attraction for many tourists.

"We do not know where the nightingale found shelter," says the Temps, "but we surmise that they have met the fate of all the other birds of Eastern France; asphyxiation by gases and fumes, if not the more direct slaughter by shell and bullet."

Recently a war correspondent in Poland noted the absence of all birds.

Storks, swans, partridges, grouse and quail have all been exterminated by the regimental butchers, and even the hackneyed mind picture of the vulture soaring above the battlefield has not been verified in this war.

Two thousand French school teachers have been killed in a war of so-called civilization. What more could barbarism do?

ANOTHER CARUSO.

No one can tell what the day has in store for him. The truth of this threadbare platitude is again revealed when by mere chance a truck-driver is discovered possessed of a great voice.

A poor Rumanian a few days ago while driving a furniture van in New York was suddenly attracted by a sweet voice in an upper story. He stopped and listened. Then crooning one of his native songs, he became absorbed in thought. Something whispered to him to try his luck again in this Land of Opportunity. Quickly jumping from his truck, he rang the bell. The servant appearing, he stammered out, "me can sing, too. Let me sing." The maid slammed the door in his face, but he persisted.

The house happened to be the home of The Aborn School for Opera Classes. One of the teachers hearing the commotion below, in the spirit of derision, told the maid to let the man come up. She took him to her studio, and there the truck driver, in overalls, sang. As the great voice rolled out the sweet melody of "Donia," a Rumanian love song, the people in the entire house assembled. First they marvelled, then their surprise changed to ecstasy.

Another Caruso had been found. He was told to return to sing to Mr. Aborn. The result was a five-year contract in munificence beyond his wildest dreams. He is first to be trained, as he lacks technique, but another year should find him in grand opera.

That the whole world does not consist of Carusos, or people of supreme talent, it patent. Still, in the general scheme of life, it would appear that everyone should have something within worth while, or the plan is imperfect.

Lucky the man who, like this poor fellow, discovers for what he is fit, before it is too late.

It looks like sinking money to put it into a $15,000,000 superdreadnought. We shall have to sink many invading enemies to make good on such expenditures.

AN INESCAPABLE ISSUE.

When in 1889 Wyoming, with 9000 inhabitants, of whom a few hundred were women, gave those women full suffrage its action was a well-advertised joke. For 24 years no state or Legislature followed suit.

In 1893 Colorado, in 1896 Utah and Idaho enfranchised women. Another wait of 14 years followed. When the 1910 census was taken it reckoned on four suffrage states only with 1,642,000 people living under the system which Wyoming had in a double sense pioneered 41 years before.

Four years have added seven states with a present population of approximately 8,000,000, not counting Illinois, where women vote for many officials, or Alaska. The legislative sessions of 1915 saw suffrage amendments passed by both houses in 10 states, though the question comes in popular vote this fall in but four. These four, New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, have a population far more than twice as great as all the present suffrage states.

New Jersey voted Tuesday; the other three states Nov. 2. The "pros" may fairly hope again somewhere. Of seven states last year they carried only the two westernmost. But in the meantime the President of the United States and many other leaders of thought and action have joined them and their cause has gained greatly in method and thoroughness of advocacy.

Legislatures gave evidence last spring of a belief that the issue is inescapable. That of Massachusetts, before whose obdurate committees women have battled for two generations, voted 10 to 1 in the upper, 6 to 1 in the lower house. New York was unanimous; New Jersey unanimous in one house. Even in Harrisburg the ayes were 2 to 1. Woman suffrage, now, may win anywhere or nowhere. In most of the Northern and Western states it can hardly be long delayed.

MENTAL ATTITUDE OF MOTORISTS.

St. Louis is not alone in suffering from an unwarrantable increase in accidents due to the use of automobiles. In Chicago, in one year, there have been 236 deaths and 3134 injuries from these vehicles. To stem the tide it is proposed to establish a special auto department, with a good lawyer and staff of investigators to fix the blame.

Doubtless one fertile source of automobile accidents is the peculiar state of mind which many drivers of machines fall into, the existence of which is manifested visibly by their reckless driving and audibly by their illegitimate use of the horn.

Horns used so as to terrify and lights whose principal effect is to blind other people are both manifestations of an insolent, irresponsible, anti-social mental attitude. Perhaps nothing less than a cooling in a jail will ever humble those drivers who by maintaining that attitude are a constant menace to others.

The fact that Brewer Kolkschneider, after 40 years here, is about to become an American citizen, should convince all comers that American citizenship has been tried out and is a good thing.

WAR LIGHT.

Germany has its war bread, war vegetables, war meat, war charities and war economies. Now war light has been added to the war commodities. Owing to shortness in coal oil, the bulk of the German population in the cities and practically all the country districts have been forbidden the consumption of petrol for lighting purposes.

The many experiments by the Government with possible substitutes have finally culminated in a spirit lamp; and its use has been made acceptable to the authorities by a mechanic who invented an amalgam not containing copper or brass—the two prohibited metals.

A burner of this kind is sold by the Government for $1 (four marks), and the price of alcohol for lighting purposes has been reduced to 50 pfennig a liter. As one liter will supply light for 12 hours, each light costs 5 pfennig (a little over 1 cent) per hour.

In large cities the Government is using every effort to expand the use of electricity. In the country districts the public halls will be lighted nightly at Government expense, to accommodate the seamstresses and other persons who are forced to work at night.

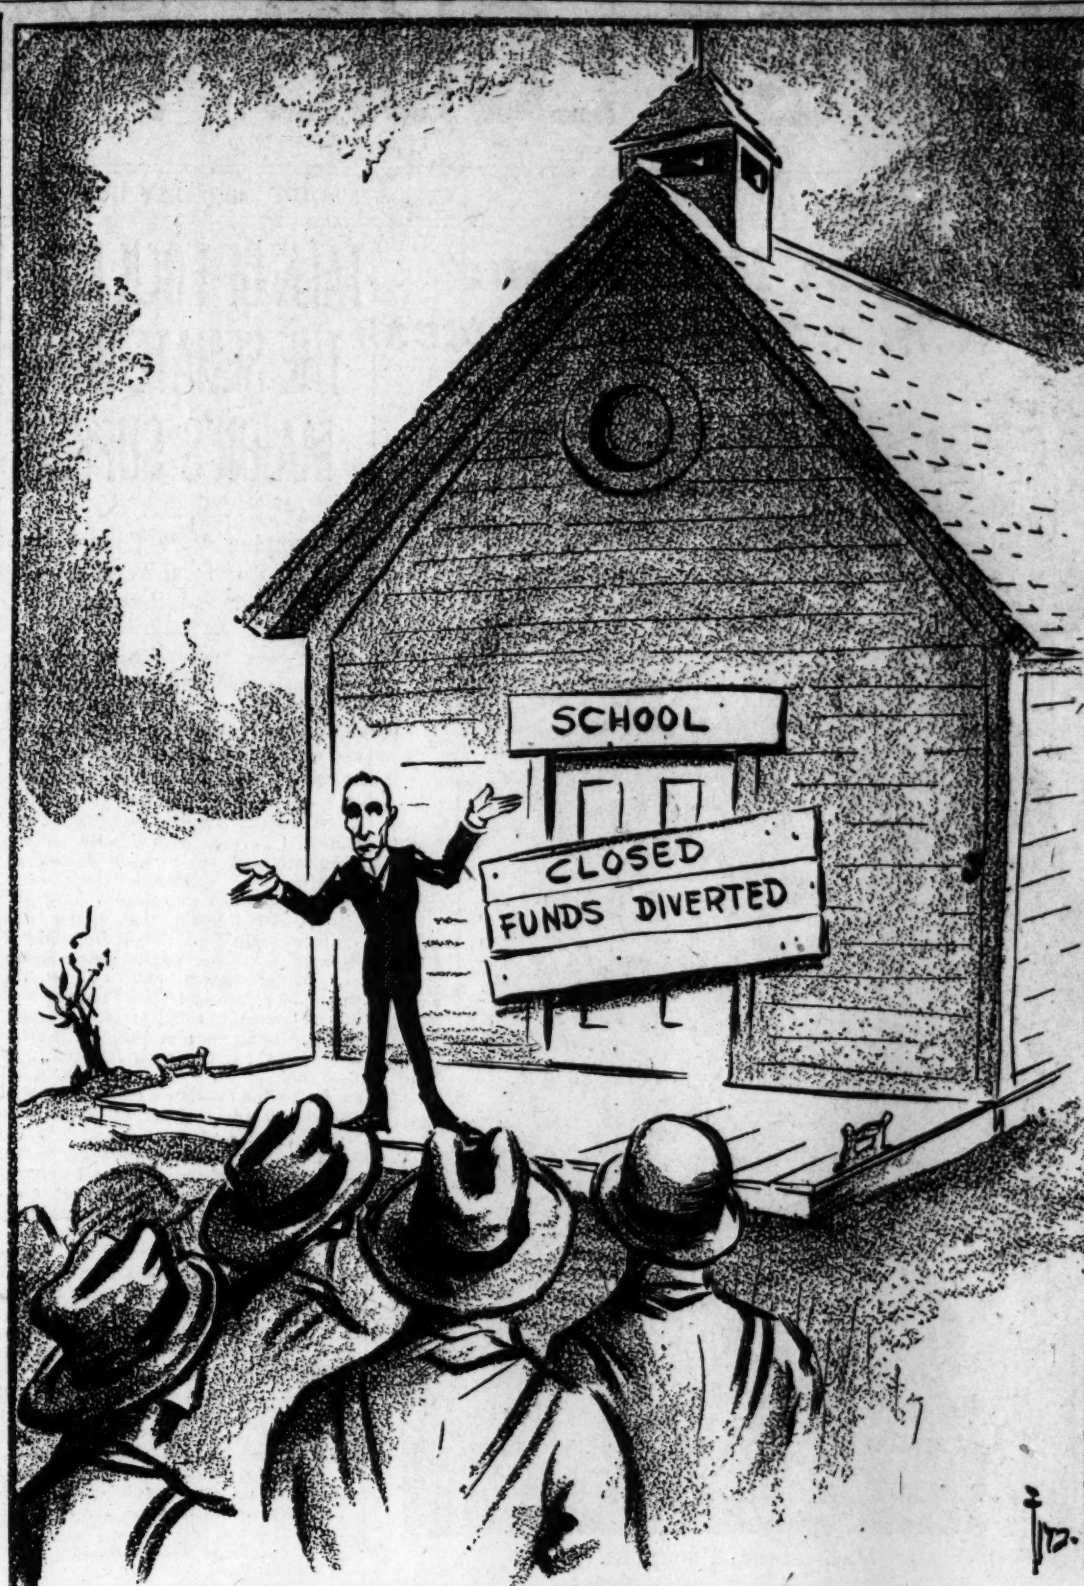

The war light is of 50 candle power as against 18 candle power in coal oil lamps; some burners are supplied on request with 100 to 500 candle-power strength.

WHEN RUMANIA'S HOUR STRIKES.

"The hour has not come for Rumania to enter the war," Premier Bratianu told a parliamentary deputation. Presumably the hour will not come until the other Balkan peoples have pulled the chestnuts out of the fire. But can she continue indefinitely her old game of waiting until that hour?

She refused to join the Balkan alliance in the war against Turkey. Her hour struck after the fighting had begun and she compelled Bulgaria to give Silistria and adjacent territory as the price of her neutrality. After the league fell apart and Bulgaria, single-handed, was struggling with Montenegro, Serbia, Greece and Turkey, Rumania's "hour to enter the war" came again. It was after she saw that Bulgaria was being soundly whipped. The loss in men by which she obtained her gains was so negligible that they are not mentioned in histories of the second war. She compelled Bulgaria to give up a nice slice of coast on the Black Sea. In the place where the boundary between Rumania and Bulgaria leaves the Danube she got a lot of land and river and gave the line a sharper slant to the west.

Stern factors are to be reckoned with in this war. When a prospect of a maximum in gains at a minimum of risk has indicated that her hour to enter has arrived, it may be too late.

MR. ANTWINE ON POLITICAL ALLIES.

THERE is one thing to be said for the different allies in Europe," Mr. Antwine said. "They stick pretty well. The war has been going on now for more than a year, and strangely enough everyone in it is fighting on the side he was on when he first went in. Even Japan, though cleaned up on the side of the allies and having nothing further to gain on that side, has stayed put. She isn't busting herself, but she is at least true to an alliance from which she can hope for nothing from this time on beyond the possible satisfaction of having been on the winning side.

"For the baser aspects and more pronounced frailties of friendship we must needs turn our eyes away from Armageddon, where nothing is supposed to be good, and look at what the Democrats of Missouri are doing to the Major administration. Our distinguished United States Senators from Missouri would not even remain on the platform with him at Cape Girardeau while the Governor spoke. The Russians got in bad in Galicia, but her allies stuck to her. The Anglo-French got in bad at the Dardanelles, but their allies remained true to them. But when the Major administration got in bad in Jefferson City, all its allies took to the woods. The entire administration, with all its office holding relations, was cruelly abandoned. The stampede could not have been much worse had the Democrats of Missouri gone over to the Republicans.

"In spite of all the things we say of war, it still has its virtues. It is not politics, at any rate."

"You don't seem happy."

"I am in a very strange frame of mind."

"How is that?"

"I am a Republican, and I believe in a high protective tariff. Yet my business is improving, and from the indications now it will shortly be better than it has ever been."

Miss Margaret Wilson, one of the President's daughters, has begun to talk of the time when they were "frightfully poor." Great Scott! Are we to have frightfulness in this country, too?

One reason why we are having trouble getting a car line to the Art Museum is that the decision in the matter largely rests with people who ride in automobiles.

There is no doubt about Chairman Rodgers being efficient, anyway.

"The Only Life"

Suddenly left wealthy, a young man is lured to the city for his enjoyments. In the end he finds he has been following the wrong ideals.

By Hester Worthington.

"RICH, eh?"

"A regular Croesus, they say—just inherited something like three millions."

"What is he doing in this dead burg, then?"

"Why, a part of the estate of his uncle is located here. Young Talcott has come here to settle it up. Closed up most of it. You remember Col. Ransom? Used to live here—big house on the hill. Regular barracks, empty for years. Talcott wants to sell it."

The object of all this discussion, Lysle Talcott, had appeared at Rushton in the semblance of a young nabob. There was no doubt that he was a most fortunate heir, for the Ransom estate was conservatively estimated at over a million.

Talcott had found little difficulty in disposing of two farms and some central business property, for he was willing to give bargains. His wealth had come to him unexpectedly and it had dazzled him. When at his home in the city the first word of his heavy inheritance had become known, he had been taken up by a certain fashionable set who worshiped Mammon. The Winston family had especially set about to make him welcome into their social circle. Beatrice Winston, handsome as she could be, had made court to him and he was flattered.

Talcott was anxious to get through with his business at Rushton and return to the city and its rare whirl of excitement. He had been always poor. Now, with unlimited means at his call, he thought of the one feature of "having a good time."

He was not quite so anxious, after the first week of his stay at Rushton. Business had brought him in contact with an old lawyer, Cyrus Deane, and, incidentally, with his daughter, Mabel. From the first moment his eyes were drawn to her sweetly beautiful face he never forgot its charming outline. Had it been the old struggling Talcott that has thus come across this gentle creature, his heart would have been wholly lost. As it was, the lure of "the only life," the fascination of the siren-like Beatrice Winston held him in a balance, swaying variously.

Miss Deane Calls.

He had finished up his business at Rushton and had arranged to depart the next day. During his stay he had been given a room back of the hotel office, provided with a desk and chairs, for the convenience of those who had dealings with the estate. He had just finished writing a letter as there came a timid knock at the door. It stood partly open and framed a vision of grace and loveliness that brought him instantly to his feet.

"Miss Deane," he exclaimed, his face alight with genuine pleasure.

"May I intrude?" she spoke in a pleasant, but half-embarrassed way, as she glanced about the apartment and found it untenanted except for herself.

"You are very welcome," he answered heartily, and drew up the best chair in the room for her and saw her seated. Then he stood before her, the courteous gentleman complete.

"I expected to find others here," began Mabel lamely.

"Indeed?" he smiled encouragingly.

"In fact, quite an onslaught was mediated upon you by our little charity society."

"Tell me all about it," he invited expansively, and seated himself so near to her and looked into her eyes with his deep blue eyes so interested, that her color rose slightly.

Mabel explained the philanthropic work of her friends and herself—the founding of a vacation home for tired mothers and ailing babies from the city during the pestilent summer season. He kept her talking, her sweet voice seemed to charm him. As the true nobility of her life work was realized in his impetuous mind, he forgot wealthy Miss Winston. He leaned towards Mabel, the words upon his ardent tongue that would have made her his life helpmeet, when there was an interruption. Three chattering ladies entered the room. The momentary spell of better impulses was broken.

Perhaps it was because of Mabel, perhaps the way of his profligate nature, but he seemed pleased at the opportunity of doing some good. As the other ladies repeated the story Mabel had already told, Talcott had a vast surprise of an answer to the appeal ready.

"Ladies," he said quietly, "it will be a pleasure to meet your wishes. I will head your ticket with a thousand dollars."

They were astounded, more thrilled. Mabel lifted her shining, thankful eyes with a look that fully repaid

Hard to Keep Ahead

The Woman Who Dared

A Married Life Serial of Utmost Interest.

By Dale Drummond.

Chapter I.

"WHAT would you do, Nell, if you should get married, and then find out afterward that you had made a mistake—that you had married the wrong man—wouldn't it be awful?"

"What would I do? Why, Kathie, I don't know! But I do know that I don't think it right for a woman to sit down like a tame cat just because she's made a blunder."

"But being married to the wrong man would be such an awful blunder; and suppose the right one should come along afterward! What a frightful position one would be in!" Kathie was decidedly sentimental.

"Well, I certainly should do something!" I returned. "I wouldn't let any man spoil my life if I could help it. But you might not be able to do anything. Perhaps you wouldn't dare!"

The above dialogue took place on my eighteenth birthday, 13 years ago. I am now 31, but I remember it as well as though it were yesterday.

When I was 21 I married Haskell Boroughs. He was nearly 10 years older than I—20 years wiser in the ways of the world.

I realized before we returned from our wedding trip I had made a mistake. But in my ignorance I thought it was a mistake in getting married, not in the man. His love-making had not seemed odd or impetuous before we were married, now it appeared coarse and indelicate to me. He was intensely jealous, too; I couldn't go out or come in without giving the most elaborate account of my movements. If I occasionally spent a longer time than he thought necessary with some old friend, I had to listen to such a storm of reproaches, such insulting insinuations, that I soon stopped going, and so lost many friends.

A Longing for Children.

WE had been married three years before I even mistrusted he was untrue to me. He was often out late, occasionally remained out all night. But his brief explanations of "the club" or "a poker game" satisfied me. I was not naturally curious. I was a little and never thought of doing so. Lying had always seemed to me so cowardly.

So when I found out that my husband's whole life with me had been a tangled web of lies, I was first incredulous, then insulted, then angry. I never questioned him. That he should lie to me seemed so unnecessary, such an acknowledgment of his guilt, that I kept bitter tears over his perfidy before I knew that he was perfidious.

About three years after we were married I had a baby boy. He was born dead. I, too, nearly died. I had never ceased grieving for him, but my husband was glad he died.

"I don't intend to share you with anyone!" he had declared when I had wondered at his indifference.

"But your own children!" I had exclaimed in open-eyed astonishment.

"We will have no more children," he had declared. And, although I longed for them, my arms were empty.

Had I had a living child, or children, this story might never have been told. The mother longing satisfied, I might have forgiven the father all else. But

THE newly deciphered tablet recording this story was among the inscribed objects found by the expedition sent to Babylon from the University of Pennsylvania. Prof. Stephen Langdon, a young American scholar, who is professor of Assyriology in Jesus College, Oxford, England, a chair endowed by an American family, was visiting the museum in Philadelphia in the autumn of 1912. At that time he copied a number of the tablets, one of which was a triangular fragment. He took the clay tablet to Oxford, where it was shown to the eminent English scholar, Prof. Sayce, and it was discovered that it recorded a part of an early Sumerian story of the flood and of the fall of man.—The Christian Herald.

The Bright Tin Pail

Sandman story of the old man and his wife and the rich man who perished by his own greediness.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONCE upon a time there was a King who was very rich, so rich that he made all the people work for him, and gave them only a very little money in return.

The King became so rich that he had to build large storehouses for his wealth, and instead of paying the wise men who did all the work, he took them to his storehouses and showed them all his wealth of gold and precious stones and told them much of it would be theirs if only they worked to help him get more.

But this wicked and greedy King did not stop to think he should one day grow old, and that he would have only his gold and precious stones to comfort his old age.

One day he called one of his wise men to him who had worked hard and given much wisdom to the King, and told him he did not need him any more, that he had no more use for him, and the wise man looked at him and replied: "No, there is no more use for me to you, but I have much that you have not taken from me, and much that you do not possess."

"Beware, O King, for in your old age you shall wish for that which money cannot buy and which man cannot give to you."

"You have crushed it out of your heart and life, and some day when it is too late you will try to find it."

THEN the King wanted to learn what this great thing was, but the man said it was something he could not give him, and the King laughed.

"If no man can give me this thing then it cannot be worth money, and it is of no use to me," replied the King and he closed his doors upon the wise man and went back to his wealth. But the King could not drive what the wise man had said from his mind, and one night he had a dream.

He saw himself an old man sitting

Shaping the Eyebrows

THE eyes are the windows of the soul, poets say, and therefore it behooves us to keep our eyes and their accompanying arches as lovely as nature intended they should be. Any baby's eyebrows can be made beautiful in shape by the use of the eye pencil to train them as the child grows.

Some women outline the arch with pigment and carry it down over the outside of the eye, but this always looks artificial, and no woman whose wealth and standing are not such that she can make herself look anything she pleases can safely indulge in the little vanities of artificial form and color about the face. Criticisms regarding such artificialities are always cruel. Better be ugly than painted, if you want the confidence and respect of your fellows.

To elongate the curve of the eyebrow and carry it down on the outer side, massage that part of the brow to stimulate the blood and then rub into the line of the arch vaseline mixed with quinine. Apply this with a tiny stiff brush, like a painter's brush, so that the grease will be confined to one narrow line. Then, if the brows are thin, run the same stimulant to the hair through the curve of the entire eyebrow. In any case, a touch of grease, wiped off, improves the appearance of the eyebrows and makes the hair set smoothly along a defined curve.

Not a few people have too thick or scraggy eyebrows, and the work of these people is to pinch the eyebrows into their given outline every day and often more than once a day if possible. The scraggy or too-abundant hairs are pulled out by means of tweezers. This is not a pleasant task, but it is effective in getting the arch of the eyebrow into the sort of shape that artists rave about.

Modern Greeks.

WHAT and who are these modern Greeks? The most skeptical investigators admit that in most of them is some blood transmitted from ancient Greece, and that there is a proportion of Greek descent in Greece about equal to that of Anglo-Saxon descent in America. For the rest, the modern Greeks are either Albanian or Slav or Vlach.

Beside the Greeks in Greece there are other Greeks who far outnumber them. They are found on all the coasts of the Ottoman empire; Crete and the other islands until very lately under Turkish sovereignty have no other inhabitants important in numbers; they are numerous in Asia Minor, in Syria and in Egypt.

While domiciled elsewhere, they remain passionate in devotion to the Greece they style Hellas, the modern kingdom whose people are called Hellenes; and, being masters of commerce and finance, many of them have gained enormous fortunes, from which they pour great sums into Athens particularly, but into Greece generally, for public buildings and endowments.

Keep the Fruit Juice.

BOTTLE all surplus juices left at canning time. Use clean, sterilized bottle, with good corks, and seal with sealing wax. Set in dark place. These juices will keep indefinitely and can be used for flavoring mince meat, for puddings and sauces, for coloring cake or candies, for adding to the drinking water in summer to make a cooling drink, or they may be made into jelly when fruit is out of season. If you will add a tablespoonful of glycerine to every pint of grape jam it will not crystallize. This will also apply to any jam.

So fine in both quality and texture that it is as perfect for baking cakes and other dainties as it is for bread and pastry.

Made from the finest wheat, and milled by our special slow process that preserves in the flour all the fine qualities of that finest wheat—then sifted through imported Swiss silk to make its texture as fine as the quality. It costs a little more, sometimes, by the sack, but it is most economical because it makes more and better baking per sack. MADE IN ST. LOUIS.

William

As Personal Doorkeeper for Em Hailch, William Is Under the Painful Necessity of Barring His Former Boss—by Mistake, Course!

By PAUL WEST.

WILLIAM as old Em Hailch says: "Those that laugh at last can tell the others to go to Hay!"

Miss Murgatroyd, the swell magazine cover that made believe she was crazy about me just making Hailch, the head clerk, jealous, and when he comes barking at the front door gives me the "All-out-take-the-car-ahead" signal—she'd had her little giggle, all right, and so had Hailch.

But wait for the second reel! Hailch goes and tells the Boss about me cuttin' him out with his fricassee, to get me blackballed, and what happens? Em Hailch sends for me, remembers me from bein' his son-in-law's office-striker, and puts me onto his private door, to keep the other millionaires and cranks and the like of 'em out!

So when I see Hoogley and Miss Murgatroyd coming back from their lunch, snickerin' over me, I felt like walkin' up and havin' a laughin' fit right in front of 'em, only it wouldn't be dignified. So I goes up to Hoogley and says, pleasant-like:

"Oh, Mr. Hoogley," I says, "I want to thank you for your kindness." I says, "Supposin' I'm already fired, he thinks I'm shootin' the cast-iron into him, and just looks at me. 'Uh-huh!' I says, 'Twas real clabby o' you, and I'll not forget it. Only I regret, I says, 'bein' in there will deprive me o' th' pleasure o' bein' you an' Miss Murgatroyd as often as usual. However,' I says, kinder lamp-in' my fingers a la Hoogley, to see if they shine on th' tips, "any time yer doctores call you to Em Hailch's private quarters, rest assured," I says, "of a hearty welcome and a polite reception from me! An' my thanks goes out to you." I goes on, seein' the light is beginnin' to hit him, "for havin' mentioned me to Em Hailch for the new 'sit' and the first chance I get I'll do the same for you and many of them!"

And before they can cut that up and put salt on it, I turns politely on my heel and Castles back to the Trade-Room to tell Smithy an' Wiggins and the other lads in there the good tidings. They went up like a war stock when they heard it, and started tellin' me how much they always thought of me, and how they was goin' to land right, and had th' tip from Em Hailch himself he was goin' to put me on th' new job—you know, the regular stunt o' declarin' themselves in. But I let 'em rave on, and promised to wise Em Hailch wise to their bein' the only live wires in the outside offices, and to still notice them when I got to be ownin' my own auto and all that.

Then th' rest of the day I hung round, and next mornin' I come down to start, the new job.

I wasn't the only lad watchin' Em Hailch's door. Oh dear, no! It was as easy to get in to see him as snakin' a grandstand seat at a ball game. If them lads had th' system all along th' battle-line Em Hailch has got outside his office the Germins 'd still be home on th' banks o' th' Rhine. An' th' funny part of it was it looked so easy when you give it the quick eye.

ABUSTED millionaire comes in th' front door an' asks th' lad on th' door if Mister Mordant is in. "I danno, sir," says th' lad, "but his office are right down th' hall there." "That's easy," says th' busted millionaire. So he passes down th' hall an' shoves open th' door; but instead o' fannin' into Em Hailch himself, it's Johnny Williams, with a smile like a five-pound box o' candy. "Is Mister Mordant in?" "Th' name an' th' nature o' th' business, please, an' I'll see!" An' all th' time he's lookin' th' guy up and down for bumps like a gun, or a bomb, and gettin' th' number of him every way. Then if he slices up right, Johnny passes his card along to th' next lad, which is Tommy Black, and used to be th' champion middle-weight of th' city, and he gets to him. And then it's past Tommy, if he's lucky, and finally up to me.

By that time Em Hailch knows th' guy is outside, and if he wants to, can be makin' his getaway by the private door to the alley, or layin' out th' doped seggars to make him give up his money quick if he's got any. Anyhow, by the time a party reaches me he's pretty safe, and about all I got to do is stick my nose in Em Hailch's room and tell him he's there.

"But even at that," as Tommy Black says to me, "it's possible for a dangerous character to get past us once in a while, like the man who come along with letters of introduction from th' presidents of all th' banks, and only for his accidently droppin' th' bomb on th' floor in th' room where you are now, he'd a' got in and blowed Em Hailch higher than a balloon." "What happened to him then?" I says. "Was he shed out quick?" "No," says Tommy, "shoveled out in little pieces, and th' lad that used to have your job is now th' champion one-legged high-kicker of th' country, bein' pensioned off by Em Hailch." "Oh," I says.

"But there aren't many cranks get past us," he goes on, "so you're safe from 'em. It's the personal friends of Em Hailch—the guys he don't dare touch, even him. We've got orders to let them past us, like as if we were welcome. Then, unless we're sent out to you, you have to hold 'em for a minute, so's to be sure he can make his dash for liberty th' other door. Then, if the party gets impatient, you finally open his door and let him look in, and give him some sag about Em Hailch not knowin' it was him or he wouldn't have gone, and it bein' your fault, and all that."

OH, I see," I says, "an' I'm th' goat, hey?" And I start wonderin' if I'll put it over Hoogley and the rest of 'em after all. "But that's nothin'," says Tommy Black. "Gee! I'd like that door. I've been lookin' forward to it for a year now." "I wonder why I got it, then?" I says. "Well," says Tommy, "it takes th' lad that he'll with th' smoothest face for that door."

Well, I didn't have to wait long for business. Honest, sometimes when things were busy in my old boss's office, I'd be kept on th' rush a little, but that place was a cemetery compared to this. I don't suppose one guy out of 20 got past Tommy Black and the other lad, but even at that I was kept busy passin' 'em by me and in to see Em Hailch.

DON'T get nervous," says Tommy Black, when I told him. "That'll happen, and it'll be some lad that least expects it, because when Em Hailch gets one of his grouches on he's liable to turn down his best friend. And then if you was to let 'em in!"

"But," I says, "ain't I to use me own judgment any?" "That's one thing you're not supposed to have in this office," says he. "Em Hailch has a corner on that. All you got to do is stick every guy till that buzzer buzzes." "An' if it don't?" "Then," he says, "when 10 minutes are up, open th' door and let 'em see Em Hailch isn't there."

I looked pretty good, havin' picked up quite a bit how to flout me togs from Smithy and Wiggins and the other lads, who were all swell dollers, so I thought I'd give him an eye-full before I passed him in to Em Hailch, the button not havin' been pushed yet, anyhow.

WELL, well, Bill!" he says. "William, they call me down here, Mister Hailch," I says. "Then William it is, me lad," he says. "Only you mustn't be stuck up to old friends. And so you've been promoted to a position of trust and importance? Well, well, well! Ethel sends her regards, and so do all in the buildin' and I'm so glad to see you myself, and if I wasn't in a terrible hurry, I'd love to have a long, long talk with you, but I'll have to postpone it till later." An' with that he starts straight for Em Hailch's door.

I was goin' to let him, too, of course, knowin' him so well, and that him and the old man were relations; but I suddenly gets an idea! The button hasn't buzzed yet, and it's a cinch Em Hailch knows Mister Hailch's got to my room by this time. And they've told me that buzzer never misses fire, and when it don't buzz it means business. As for Em Hailch turnin' down his own son-in-law—well, Tommy Black said that sometimes when he got a grouch on he'd turn down any one, and for the last hour I noticed he'd been a little scappy when I let a couple of parties in to see him. So, just as Mister Hailch's startin' for the door, I stalls him.

Oh, I didn't grab his arm, or give him the heel, or anything like that. I'm a diplomat, all right!

"Oh, Mister Hailch," I says, "it seems so good to see you, I just hate to have you go so quick, without tellin' me about any of the old folks." And I kind of stepped in between him and the door while I was sayin' it, but not so he'd notice it. "How's Isay Katz?" I says. "An' th' Soop, and all of 'em!" And how well you're lookin'!" I says. "Didn't th' home team put up a rotten game this last season?" I says. "An' wasn't you rootin' for them?" "I s'pose," I says, "you got a lot o' these here war stocks on yer hands, everybody's dippin' in now. And speakin' of th' war," I goes on, "who d'you think'll win, and the little by, and everybody? Has Ethel got her divorce yet?" I says. "An' ain't it fine weather for this time of th' year?"

Versatile.

IT was at a reception and the two friends had met.

"Do you know," said Ina, "it was as much as I could do to keep from laughing when Josephine was just telling us about her fiancé being 'so versatile'."

"Meaning Webb?" replied Kathleen, smiling. "Well, dear, he is rather versatile, you know."

"Nonsense!" cried Ina. "You know, Kathleen, he is a regular idiot."

"Yes," replied Kathleen, "but he's so many kinds of an idiot."

A New Recipe.

LITTLE Willie was sitting on the front porch of the happy home one Saturday afternoon, when reference was made to the Sunday dinner menu.

"I was thinking about chicken," remarked mother, and then, turning to little Willie, queried:

"Do you think you could eat some chicken tomorrow, Willie?"

"Could I?" responded Willie, with force.

"And what would you like it stuffed with?"

"Another chicken!"

Better Unsaid.

IT was at some private theatricals, and the young man wished to compliment his hostess, saying:

"Madame, you played your part splendidly. It fits you to perfection."

"I'm afraid not. A young and pretty woman is needed for that part," said the smiling hostess.

"But, madame, you have positively proved the contrary!"
